Southfield News Briefs

Fire Damage Comes
"Out of Frying Pan"

SOUTHFIELD—An estimated $300 damage was caused by a recent fire originating from a pan of overheated grease at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Belzowski, 30407 Marshall. The couple's daughter, Jean, 12, was frying potatoes on the kitchen stove, when the fire broke out.

The blaze burned the refrigerator, scorched kitchen walls and caused smoke damage throughout the house. Patrolman Richard J. Simmons put out the fire with a hand extinguisher.

Southfield Girl Comes Home with A Star's Billing

SOUTHFIELD—Carol Christensen, 23, returned to her home Sept. 1 for the first time since being awarded lead roles in her initial two moving pictures. While visiting her family, the William Chris-tensons at their home on Martha Washington, Carol will fly to Indianapolis for the premier of her first picture, "Freckles." The oldest of four children, she has just completed a heroine role in the 20th Century-Fox picture, "The Schenck." Her career began while working for American Motors as a secretary. Posing there for publicity pictures led her to a screen contract in Hollywood.

The Southfield high graduate originally intended to follow in her father's career. He is a motor industry leader in engineering, research and development.

the rear. A sack containing $150 in pennies lay near them. Entrance had been gained by forcing a temporary panel of plywood on a door which had been broken into in several previous burglaries at the same address.

Police said a similar burglary of tires and money had occurred the night before at a gas station at Miracle Mile.

Wright was unarmed. Weaver said the officers could see the man fleeing as they tried to halt him.

"I GAVE him a break when he jumped through the window. I could have shot him then," Weaver said.

He added, "You'd have one chance in a thousand of killing a man with one shot when he was running like that."

Great Books Unit Starts Meetings

The Birmingham Great Books group will resume meetings on Thursday, Sept. 22, at 8 p.m. in the Birmingham Community House with a discussion of Aeschylus Prometheus Bound.

The meetings, held every second Thursday, are open to anyone interested in reading and conversation. A leader directs the discussion by asking questions. He does not lecture, disagree, or express his own opinion.

The group is interested in comments on the contemporary value of the readings and why they have endured through time. The only requirements for a prospective member are a questing mind and an interest in books. There is no obligation to attend every meeting and there are no dues or commitments.

The Birmingham group has been in existence for many years and this year is classified as a sixth-year group. Chairman is Edward X. Tuttle, Jr., 30801 Northgate drive, Southfield.

Other readings this year will include Plato's Phaedrus; Aristotle's Metaphysics, Book XII; On the Sublime by Longinus; selections from St. Augustine: The Existence and Simplicity of God by St. Thomas Aquinas; selections from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales; Richard II by Shakespeare; Cervantes' Don Quixote; Spinoza's Ethics; Hume's Dialogues Concerning Natural Religion; selections from Voltaire's Philosophical Dictionary; the Introduction to Hegel's Philosophy of History; selections from Darwin's Origin of Species; Melville's Billy Budd and Foreboding; and The Turn of the Screw by Henry James.
