

Sharon Lee Carroll Weds Charles Turner

First Methodist church in Birmingham was the scene Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Sharon Lee Carroll to Charles G. Turner. The double ring ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in the presence of 200 guests.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mrs. Lee Carroll of Birmingham boulevard, Birmingham, and the late Mr. Carroll, and Dr. and Mrs. John Monroe of Pontiac and Chester Turner of San Diego, Calif.

THE BRIDE wore a gown of silk taffeta with a semi-scoop neckline, long tapering sleeves and chapel train. A crown of pearls and crystal secured her elbow length veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses. Mrs. Robert Hackett, sister of the groom served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Judith Klappach and Phyllis Upchurch. They appeared in ballerina length gowns designed with cowl necklines and crushed cummerbunds. Their bouquets were white carnations flecked with red.

GERALD Millar stood as best man and ushers were John Batzloff, Carl Knaack and Robert Hackett. Mother of the bride chose an olive green silk organza gown over taffeta featuring an oval neckline and short sleeves. Mrs. Turner was escorted in a plum shade silk and Mrs. Witherspoon of Dakota circle. Future meetings will be held at Grinnell's, the first one being Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. Membership chairman is R. Chapman of Lincoln avenue, Birmingham.

Birmingham - Bloomfield Hills Society Notes

So Yves St. Laurent has been drafted! Who cares?

Not the Junior women's association for the Detroit symphony orchestra. Their luncheon fashion show last Monday at the Green Pte. yacht club featured the quickly elegant clothes of designer Yves St. Laurent (formerly of the Trainsa Norel house) Mr. and Mrs. Charles Himehock of Lakeland brought Mr. Trainsa to town to show his new fall line, and the many Birmingham Bloomfielders there were most enthusiastic.

We met young Mr. Trainsa and found him to be a firm believer in clothes the suburbanite can wear round the clock (not a pair of bermudas in the collection). We learned from this former protégé of Oleg Cassini that jersey, brain trims, long tunics and chunky necklaces are in this year.

EXCLAIMING over his sequined dresses were Mrs. Marion S. Crocker, Mrs. Martin Strandberg, Mrs. Theodore Etter, Mrs. Frank Langstrom Jr. and Mrs. Douglas Brown. Delighted to see the return of real hats (our whimsies are wearing out anyway) were Mrs. David Demarest, Mrs. Laurens Hare, Mrs. Francis Anderman, Mrs. James F. Martin, and Mrs. Robert Burton. Mrs. Thomas Restrick, Mrs. William Poplack, Mrs. Harry Winston, and Mrs. Gordon DeBoard were seen very seriously taking notes and quietly polishing up their charge plates.

Paul Paray and the Detroit Symphony orchestra can be justly proud of this hard working junior group. Me? As soon as I finish this I intend setting fire to my wardrobe!

Adding assurance that the women of Birmingham Bloomfield will be among the best dressed this year is an active group at Oakland Hills. Headed by Mrs. Robert Stuffs of Pilgrim they presented their first bridge fashion show of the season with casual clothes by Marge Fisher and furs by Dittich. Members modeling were Mrs. John Scialoro, Mrs. Steve Goodale, Mrs. N. J. Rakas, Mrs. Fred Sheldon, Mrs. Joseph Boley, and Mrs. Ed Nagel. Others seen at the bridge tables included Mrs. William Prew, Mrs. David Diltz, Mrs. Paul Trimmer and Mrs. Joseph Murphy.

Alums' Annual Event

And still another clothes conscious group! This time it was an elegant fashion show sponsored by the Kingswood alumnae group, an annual affair which grows even bigger and better every year. Admiring the fashions from Saks were Mrs. Paul Wheaton, Mrs. John Lovett, Mrs. William Seibert, Mrs. Jack Minor, Mrs. Steve Booth, Mrs. William Beresford, Mrs. Neil McMath, Mrs. James Robertson, Mrs. R. L. Graham and Mrs. Martin Butzel.

Others spotted in the Cranbrook gym included Mrs. Alfred C. Moore, Phoebe Otter, Mrs. Thomas A. Wagner, Mrs. William T. Gossett, Mrs. Henry C. Johnson, Mrs. G. Roy Vanderveer, Mrs. Spencer D. Hopkins and Mrs. Perry Williams.

Touring the East

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Bratton of Radgale are touring the east and after a brief stop back home, will head for San Francisco.

Until Next Summer

The sailing grandmothers of Orchard Lake bid fond goodbyes to their summer of rigging the job sail and manning the mizzenmast (whatever that means) with a luncheon at Mrs. Benjamin H. Micou's home. Cohostess was Mrs. Edward S. Reid Jr.

Perrys Due Back

The Charles Perrys are due home after their extended vacation in Europe. The only thing wrong with the trip being so early in the season was the fact that there was no snow for skiing.

Welcome to B'ham

The stork almost beat Mrs. William Smith of Chesterfield to Birmingham. The Smiths moved here from Schenectady last week and Mrs. Smith met her doctor for the first time the next night in the delivery room. Son Stuart is now home and being thoroughly enjoyed by his sisters Karen and Andrea.

Headmistress Feted

Mrs. Gunnar Karlstrom invited us to tea last Sunday. The tea, given in the stately georgian home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wellock of Kirkway drive, was to honor the new headmistress of Bloomfield country day school, Miss Marjorie Sallie. Miss Sallie is a native of Foxboro, Mass., but her previous assignment was at the St. Paul school for girls in Walla Walla, Wash. Parents, board members and faculty turned out to welcome the guest of honor and we spotted the headmaster of Detroit country day school and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shaw. Marvin Goodale of Kingswood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoey of Cranbrook and Dr. and Mrs. Constantine Schrenberg of the University hospital, Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Wellock's home was filled with flowers from her own garden and among the guests admiring the view from the patio were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Polk, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. John Booth, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Richardson Jr. and Mrs. Mrs. N. B. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Burgess, Mrs. C. L. Bricker, Mr. Martin Archangel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Vanderkloot, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burton.

Bloomfield Hills Couple Entertain For Dem Candidates

A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Graddis on Vaughan road, Bloomfield Hills honored Democratic Congressional candidate James Kellin Sunday. Among the guests was Michigan's junior Senator Philip A. Hart.

Kellin's talk on foreign affairs, the American intelligence system, and the national economy was heard by 50 friends and neighbors of the Graddis's.

THREE-YEAR-OLD René McKay of Humphrey street, Birmingham, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. William McKay, leaving the Kenny Rehabilitation Center, Ferndale, where René has been undergoing rehabilitative treatment for the past two years for a brain injury.

Sorority Aids State Hospital

Birmingham chapter of Eta Iota of Beta Sigma Phi recently had its "Service Project" for the 1959-60 sorority year, the library group at the Pontiac State hospital. Each month, three sorority members visit the library group for the afternoon, presenting an interesting program and serving home made refreshments donated by the girls. During the year, two fund raising events took place, a theatre party and an evening of bridge at each members home. From the funds, furniture was obtained for the library room at the hospital.

Breakfast Club Installs Officers

Birmingham chapter of Credit women's breakfast club of North America will present its installation dinner 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Devon Gables. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Gwen Staley of Cleveland, Ohio. Installing officers will be Eleanor Stevenson, president of Windsor chapter. New officers are Mrs. Edith Hoff-
