

The act of pretending that one is something that he is not (usually an assessment to vanity) is so thin a covering that most people are through it easily. In reality, the continued use of such pretense is creating a self-made barrier to success and happiness. Pretense has no acceptable defense. Forfeiting the rule of a pretender is like counterfeiting money—non-negotiable.

Cranbrook Country Club Setting for Luau

The Young at Heart

The young set came for the "early show" of Cranbrook Village with her guest Pam Groves of Birmingham, Sue Gilmore of Cranbrook Country Club Saturday evening. Selecting LP's to a junior taste were (from left) Patricia Allen

Members of the new Cranbrook Country Club on Evergreen Road gathered Saturday evening for their third party since the club's opening in mid-June.

Costumed guests were greeted at the poolside with leis and entertained by a floor show which included hula and calypso dancers, stunt diving and a conga line. Master of ceremonies was Don Hunt.

THE PARTY was planned under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Crosthwaite and Mrs. Michael Rottenberk. Swimming and dancing were also on the agenda. Around 11 p.m., baked ham sandwiches and assorted fruits were served.

On the committee for the event were Mrs. A. Robert Messnick Jr., decorations and Mrs. Roger Tyslan and Mrs. Archie Craig, food. Mrs. Alex Sinclair helped pace the dancers in their routines.

THE CLUB, which features an attractive pool, bath houses, shuffleboard and volleyball courts, is open to families living in the Cranbrook Village and Cambridge Village sections of Southfield and in Beverly Hills.

Only two other group events have been arranged, Mrs. Crosthwaite reports. A hot dog roast and family party was the first, followed by a Fourth of July celebration.

Attend Christening in N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Simons of Wooddale Road, Birmingham, flew in their Cessna to Rochester, N. Y., to attend the christening of their new grand-daughter Valerie Rose, Sunday. At the same time they returned their other grand-daughter Margaret Marie to her parents. Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simons flew to Japan to attend Margaret's christening and to be proxy godparents. Margaret Marie has been visiting in Birmingham for three weeks, dividing her time between the Simons and her maternal godparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Close.

THE W. J. Simons and daughter, Cheryl Ann, have recently returned from a tour by private automobile of 13 foreign countries. They met the famous Staffers, Tyrol dancers, in St. Anton, Austria, a fashion show in Italy, bull fights in Spain, investment with the vineyard farmers' revolt in southern France and shopping in Paris.

Cheryl flew home from England and Ireland in time to spend a week-end at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, and then boarded a train for Currant Creek Ranch near Rock Springs, Wyoming, where she will stay until Labor Day.

Miss Peterson to Wed in November

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Peterson of Ionia announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Marie of Royal Oak, to Roger William King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. King of Endicott Road, Bloomfield Hills.

A graduate of Davenport Business College, Miss Peterson was affiliated with Alpha Iota Sorority. Her fiancé attended Grinnell College and graduated from the University of Michigan, where he received his BBA and MBA degrees. A November wedding is planned.

Former Resident, "Woman of the Week"

Mrs. Earl L. Shook Jr., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight C. Baldwin of Forest Street, Birmingham, was named "Woman of the Week" in Asheville, N. C. Margaret Marie, called Peggy, attended the University of Michigan and is a graduate of Wayne University. She worked as a medical technologist in Wayne County General Hospital and Detroit Receiving Hospital, then was in visual auditory production at Wayne University.

AFTER MARRIAGE Peggy worked in pulmonary research laboratory at Mt. Sinai Hospital while her husband was at N. Y. Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. They have four children, Thomas Earl, six years old; William Jeffrey, five; Claudia Kaye, three and John Dwight, nine months.

Sewing for herself and the children, cake decorating and photography are her most satisfying hobbies. She prefers to do portraits of children, no matter how they wiggle, and experiment with filters.

NEVER HAVING been in the South before, when they arrived three years ago, Peggy set out to find out all she could about the area. She discovered a good way was by working as crew leader on the 1960 census.
