

Skating Rink Adds Zest To Family's Yule Plans

LATHRUP — What could add more to the Christmas season than a skating rink in the back yard. Dan Garrison and his son, 10-year-old Davey, have been busy constructing theirs and, according to reports, it's as professional as can be—good enough for hockey players and just plain fun skating.

The Andersons, weather permitting, plan a few impromptu Yule skating parties and Davey has his guest list all made up for one too. And the Anderson's friends, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winder of Highland Park, Ill., were advised to bring their skates when they arrive for an overnight visit Saturday.

The Yule season was ushered in at the home of the Normans each year on Lathrup Boulevard Saturday evening as some 85 guests met for cocktails and buffet supper.

Another busy household has been that of the Josephs, who began the Christmas season with a dinner party for six on Friday the eighth, followed by a pre-dance party just before joining members of the Lathrup Village League at the Maplewood Club last weekend. Seven couples enjoyed the Swain's hospitality on the latter occasion.

Next big event was the coming

Bobby's nine years, celebrated with him at lunch and then enjoyed an afternoon at the movies. Bobby, son of the Raymond Garrisons, lives on Saratoga.

Lathrup Village Cub Pack 1841 met Friday evening at Northbrook School. The entire pack staged an old-time minstrel show. Larry Pflaibler acted as Mr. Interlocutor for the production. The boys strummed home-made banjos.

Den Four posted the colors and the honor flag was awarded to Den Three. Den Two won the Golden Arrow award. The next pack meeting, Jan. 11, will feature the annual Pinewood Derby.

No matter what you have to sell, Birmingham Eccentric classified this will do the best job for you. Cost is low, they are easily prepared and usually bring desired results.

Mrs. James Moore is looking forward to the arrival of her mother, Mrs. Genevieve Brown of Kenosha, Wis. She will spend the holidays with the Moores and a family dinner will highlight Christmas Day.

Family is the word for Christmas over at the Orths who will welcome Mrs. Orth's cousin, Mrs. Clarence Neuhans and her husband and two children, John and Ann.

Also around the festive board at Yule dinner will be Mrs. Orth's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Gildersleeve of Jackson, The Neuhans family, incidentally, from Ottawa Hills, near Toledo, Ohio.

A pre-Christmas do is the buffet dinner for 10 couples hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Ristan on Saturday evening. In addition to other pretty Christmas decor, Mrs. Ristan centered the table with a red and gold candle arrangement.

Bobby Garrison, who tees off with the members with the following day, Dec. 2 for his party. Nine boys, one for each

Birthdays Accent Yule For These Residents

CRANBROOK VILLAGE—Yule celebrations at the Roger Tyslan's began with a birthday party for daughter Gwen who became a big seven on Dec. 13. To tee off her party, six little girls enjoyed a visit to Rotunda Inn and then dinner at Gwen's home.

A birthday bonus followed a day or so later when Gwen, her parents and little sister, Laurie, went to see Santa and dined out.

Next thing on the family agenda is a dinner New Year's Day for Ysyan with three couples present to honor him on his birthday. A post-holiday party is also in the plans with some 35 couples invited to an open house on Jan. 7.

is in the graduate program, steel division, Ford Motor Co. Both the Ericksons are students of Great Lakes history, especially the Mack Erie activity.

Also new to the area are Mrs. K. J. Bowers, Jr. and her daughter Maryann, 17, and son Jim, 12. They are former residents of Lathrup where they lived for about eight years. Jim enjoys working with models and both youngsters like sports, especially swimming. Mrs. Bowers is active in the Birmingham slumme group of Kappa Alpha Theta.

SOUTHFIELD — The Southfield Kiwanis group met at the home of Bernice Spolar Dec. 14 with Hazel Hart and Florence Schoenals serving as co-hostesses for the Christmas meeting.

Their program included songs by the Southfield High Girl's Chorus; a solo by Diane Murphy of the school and a talk on "Christmas in Germany" by "Jig" Koppfen, exchange student from that country. Carol singing by all topped the meeting.

Last week's program of the Southfield Kiwanis featured a unique guest—the man who walked across the United States two years ago, Erwin Erditz, who hails from Southfield. Word is that it was anything but a pedestrian program.

On Wednesday evening, the men entertained their wives at Devon Gables with a gift exchange. Rule one: husbands had to purchase the gifts themselves.
