

Reflections of Winter

WINTER IS a woman hard at work shoveling cumbersome loads of snow off a sidewalk.

WINTER IS a typical sight—a shopper bundled in clothing from head to toe.

WINTER IS a Christmas card scene. A picturesque brook winding its way through the forest presents the beauty of the season at its zenith.

It's a Cool Time of Year

The dictionary says that winter is "the last and coldest season of the year . . ." Winter is that and more. It is a frosty nose that is constantly rubbed while its keeper is ice skating . . . Winter is a sound, an effect, an emotion. Winter is a reflection in the side-view mirror of a slowly moving automobile (right) creeping on a slippery street.

Winter is the silence of a snow-filled swimming pool (bottom left) and sadly, Winter can be the sickening crash of an auto accident (bottom right). And in winter, it snows . . . the snow comes falling in large white flakes—silently sifting and veiling road, roof and railing . . . that's the color and atmosphere of a suburban winter.
