

WHEN YOU NEED HELP

CALL US!
We feature fast, courteous Delivery Service from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. (Also special emergency delivery.) Free pick up and delivery.
We also feature a complete line of sick room and first aid supplies.

WABECK PHARMACY
296 W. Maple
Midwest 4-6333

PRESCRIPTION CENTER
624 N. Woodward
Midwest 6-4288

Sessions Alarm

It wakes only one person... Let's the other person sleep

- For husbands or wives who get up before the other
- Rising executives
- College students
- Professional men and women

Regular $14.95
$9.95

Sean C. Monk Certified Master Watchmaker H.I.A.

The Time Shop

151 South Bates MI 6-7377
(Behind Grinnell—Opposite Post Office)

Spring-fresh
Maternity Dress

PLEATS ARE CERTAIN TO PLEASE WITH AN ORGANDY BOW!

$14.95

Plats falling from a narrow circular yoke are very pleasing and flattering to any figure—designed in a subtle plaid arnel and cotton. Grey. Sizes 8-18.

The Glassford Shop

135 PIERCE STREET
• OPEN FRIDAY EVENINGS • MI 4-5244

Events Resident, 73, Injured in $5000 Fire

(Continued from 1-A)

tanned face, he got many "oh's" and "ah's" from the ladies.

IN SPITE of the crush, the reception was a wonderful one. Chiefs of diplomatic missions were special guests, many of them wearing their country's costume. Spotted in the crowd were Danish Ambassador and Countess Knuth-Winterfeldt, the ambassador and countess will be honored this evening at the Kingsley Inn at a cocktail party and make the gala affair is being sponsored by the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

DUE TO the weather it took three hours to get home, which normally would be a 15-minute drive. The Schaefer's was practically at a standstill. Thirty members of the symphony were unable to make the inaugural concert.

Tickets, or rather the lack of tickets, was the source of the most confusion. Down at the inaugural Ball Committee's ticket office several hundred persons waited in line.

THE CROWD lined the street, jammed the stairway and filled the two office upstairs. Many who came were told their tickets weren't there. They were told to go to the Stater's ticket booth the next day.

While viewing the situation, I heard a remark which completely broke me up. Mrs. Stater, at Ann Arbor was inquiring about his box for the ball. He was told that it was being delivered to Philadelphia. His remark was, "They don't even know where I'm staying."

ON FRIDAY at 9 p.m., the curtain went up on a brilliant extravaganza, a scene matched only once before in your city's history—beauty and fashion excitement.

The inaugural Ball was the first highlight of the social and fashionable season in Washington this year.

When the President, preceded by Vice President and Mrs. Johnson and a major portion of his cabinet and their wives, arrived at the Shoreham at 1 a.m., an electric current of comment went through the room.

"Where's the First Lady? Where's Jackie?" they murmured.

I'M HERE tonight representing my wife," he said, with laughter and a grin, as he stepped at a private party and stayed until 3:30.

Many of the guests stayed on in spite of the fact that J. F. K. left. However, this reporter had fulfilled her mission and decided to retire from the fray.

Master
(Continued from 1-A)

group of scientists collecting Crustaceans.

A HANDSOME, shy Nordic, he fretted quietly over mugs only he could see on the massive blue panels that describe the 10 explorations of Danish oceanographers who probed the secrets of the fathomless bottoms of the seas in the last two centuries.

As a museum preparator he must be a carpenter, electrician, plumber and scientist as well as an artist. Moving an 45-foot long exhibit from one place to another, packing and unpacking every component part from labels to great steel grabs is an arduous task, requiring infinite concentration. It is obviously a part of this man's schooling as well as his nature.

Only after the completion of some aspect of the work, was he willing to relax a moment, smile gently and converse briefly in short, heavily accented sentences.

AS THE LAST details of the exhibit were completed Monday, he mused wistfully realizing that this will be the finale of his work with the "Galathea"—his creation and life for many, many months.

What he has seen of this area,

A 73 year-old Birmingham man suffered face and hand burns Saturday when an estimated $5,000 fire broke out at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Schaefer, 120 Hawthorne, Birmingham.

C. E. Crawford, father of Mrs. Schaefer, was treated and released from Beaumont Hospital.

According to Fire Marshal Crawford's falling asleep on theavenport while smoking. The Schaefer's were out for the evening visiting friends.

Crawford awakened and attempted to put out the fire, but it got out of control. The Schaefer's 15-year-old son, Terry, who was working in the basement, escaped through the back door and tumbled over the porch roof to his grandfather's room, but couldn't find his father. He then called the fire department from a neighbor's house.

FIREFMEN FOUND Crawford collapsed against the front door. The fire spread through the front room and caused extensive smoke damage to other parts of the house, said Scott. Fire Chief Park Smith said it was called the fire department from a neighbor's house.

Terry is staying with friends while the Schaefer's have taken quarters at the Birmingham House Motel along with Mrs. Schaefer's sister, Mrs. H. T. Wert of Philadelphia, who is visiting the family.

Camera

(Continued from 1-A)

enforcement officers, there should be no reason to believe that it was felt. Also, GM will transfer permanent title of the car to the City.

Pains call for an agreement in which GM would hold the City harmless and the City would be liable for possible injury to its employee.

HERMAN TOLD Moxley that his GM department has been engaged for some time in theoretical and experimental work on traffic flow problems.

In connection with this work," he said, "we have also been interested in problems of safety."

When the study is completed, GM will give a detailed report to the City, it was understood.

No matter what you have to sell, Birmingham Eccentric classified ads will do the best job for you. The cost is low, they are easily prepared and usually bring desired results.

working and living at Cranbrook since his arrival, has been somewhat limited. Madsen, however, is going back to Denmark with a very good impression.

"I have never seen such a clean Museum," he offered. "The glass is always clean and everything is kept so well. Most of the Museums I've been to in Europe and the United States are old and dusty. I shall take this idea of America back with me," he said.

Minor and Newberg Sue Chrysler

Aside from being community neighbors, Jack W. Minor, 1536 Dorchester, Birmingham, and William C. Newberg, 1411 Kinrossway Drive, Bloomfield Township, have at least one thing in common.

Both have filed lawsuits against a third neighbor, L. L. Colbert, 491 Martell Drive, Bloomfield Hills, and the Chrysler Corp., claiming they were used as "scapegoats" which led to their dismissals last summer.

With in the last week both former Chrysler executives have brought similar charges against the firm and its president-board chairman.

LATEST OF the legal eruptions is Minor's charges that his Sept. 30 resignation as director of marketing for the Plymouth-Desoto-Vallant Division was obtained by force. The suit, filed in Wayne Circuit Court, named President and Board Chairman Colbert, as well as the corporation, as defendants.

The suit alleges that the forced resignation damaged Minor's reputation, earnings and job opportunities to the tune of $200,000.

Minor had previously sued the corporation for $25,000 damages because of contributions he claimed he had made to the firm's stock ownership plan.

MINOR CLAIMS that Colbert's allowance of only five minutes to resign last September threatened "more serious charges." Colbert's action, he said, was based on Minor's interests in advertising companies connected with the corporation.

Minor's suit charges that the defendants were aware of these interests and induced him to leave Grant Advertising Inc. to join Chrysler. This, claims Minor, was done at a sacrifice of income.

Even Newberg, then president of the Dodge division, as well as other top ranking Dodge officials extended these assurances, states the suit.

Minor claims the forced resignation, followed by "false and defamatory matter" circulated through the press by the defendants, injured his reputation in his community and made him unable to obtain employment for which he has been trained and educated."

Chrysler Corporation's answer to Minor's charges is that they are "not justified by the facts." The corporation claims Minor's suit is an attempt to forestall legal action which was about to be brought against him concerning monies received from outside firms. A Chrysler spokesman has stated that the "full facts of Minor's conduct with the corporation will be revealed during litigation."

MINOR JOINS sued Chrysler President William C. Newberg in insisting he was made a "scapegoat" through efforts of corporation management to cover up mismanagement charges made by stockholder groups.

Referring to himself as a "sacrificial victim," Minor claims the corporation used him to avoid expected trouble from a Delaware stockholders' suit against the corporation.

Minor's suit contends that Harry E. Chesbrough, general manager of the Plymouth division, warned him that Chrysler and Colbert "might attempt to escape from the unfortunate predicament by using plaintiff (Minor) as 'scapegoats'."

NEWBERG filed a suit against Chrysler, seeking recovery of $455,000 in profits which he agreed to sign over to the corporation with his resignation as president of the firm June 30. The profits were made from firms doing business with Chrysler.

In his suit, Newberg charged that he was forced to resign after refusing to ignore evidence of misconduct, incompetence and waste among the corporation's top executives.

The suit, filed in Wayne Circuit Court, alleged that "false and fraudulent representations, undue influence, coercion and duress" were exercised upon him and his wife Dorothy, by Chrysler and its officials.

THE OUSTER of Newberg last June was a result of the corporation's claim that it had discovered conflicts of interests because of Newberg's holdings in two firms which made parts for Chrysler.

Newberg's 18-page brief stated that "Chrysler benefited greatly from the competitively favorable transactions entered into between Chrysler and the two vendor firms in which Newberg had an interest prior to 1958."

Noted Detroit attorney Joseph G. Quifford, Mrs. Ralph G. Moore, 3851 Oakhills; Mrs. Raymond N. Reid, 2820 Farmingdale; Mrs. William L. Scherer, 4553 Coachmaker; Mrs. Alvin H. Knorr, 1857 Bedford; Mrs. George R. Squibb, 1869 Glenhurst; Mrs. Eleanor Vinal, 1029 N. Woodward; Thoburn N. Wiant, 1331 Karen Lane; and Charles W. Wiggins, 734 Yarmouth.

W. Louissell was granted a temporary restraining order against Chrysler and a hearing was set for Jan. 27. The temporary order delayed Newberg's payment on the $130,000 which Chrysler claims he still owes.

NEWBERG described himself as being an innocent victim of "an unlawful conspiracy entered into by and between L. L. Colbert" and other Chrysler directors.

He alleged that they sought to use him as a scapegoat behind which to hide and conceal the incompetence, maladministration, neglect, breaches of duty and self-dealing of which some of the aforesaid conspirators were guilty."

Chrysler issued a statement saying Newberg's allegations were without foundation in fact. According to the statement, the money settlement was proposed by Newberg and "was not the result of any duress or pressure on the part of Chrysler or any one associated with Chrysler."

Chrysler's answer to Minor's charges is that they are "not justified by the facts." The corporation claims Minor's suit is an attempt to forestall legal action which was about to be brought against him concerning monies received from outside firms. A Chrysler spokesman has stated that the "full facts of Minor's conduct with the corporation will be revealed during litigation."

MINOR JOINS sued Chrysler President William C. Newberg in insisting he was made a "scapegoat" through efforts of corporation management to cover up mismanagement charges made by stockholder groups.

Referring to himself as a "sacrificial victim," Minor claims the corporation used him to avoid expected trouble from a Delaware stockholders' suit against the corporation.

Minor's suit contends that Harry E. Chesbrough, general manager of the Plymouth division, warned him that Chrysler and Colbert "might attempt to escape from the unfortunate predicament by using plaintiff (Minor) as 'scapegoats'."

NEWBERG filed a suit against Chrysler, seeking recovery of $455,000 in profits which he agreed to sign over to the corporation with his resignation as president of the firm June 30. The profits were made from firms doing business with Chrysler.

In his suit, Newberg charged that he was forced to resign after refusing to ignore evidence of misconduct, incompetence and waste among the corporation's top executives.

The suit, filed in Wayne Circuit Court, alleged that "false and fraudulent representations, undue influence, coercion and duress" were exercised upon him and his wife Dorothy, by Chrysler and its officials.

THE OUSTER of Newberg last June was a result of the corporation's claim that it had discovered conflicts of interests because of Newberg's holdings in two firms which made parts for Chrysler.

Newberg's 18-page brief stated that "Chrysler benefited greatly from the competitively favorable transactions entered into between Chrysler and the two vendor firms in which Newberg had an interest prior to 1958."

Noted Detroit attorney Joseph G. Quifford, Mrs. Ralph G. Moore, 3851 Oakhills; Mrs. Raymond N. Reid, 2820 Farmingdale; Mrs. William L. Scherer, 4553 Coachmaker; Mrs. Alvin H. Knorr, 1857 Bedford; Mrs. George R. Squibb, 1869 Glenhurst; Mrs. Eleanor Vinal, 1029 N. Woodward; Thoburn N. Wiant, 1331 Karen Lane; and Charles W. Wiggins, 734 Yarmouth.

use him as a scapegoat behind which to hide and conceal the incompetence, maladministration, neglect, breaches of duty and self-dealing of which some of the aforesaid conspirators were guilty."

Chrysler issued a statement saying Newberg's allegations were without foundation in fact. According to the statement, the money settlement was proposed by Newberg and "was not the result of any duress or pressure on the part of Chrysler or any one associated with Chrysler."

Chrysler's answer to Minor's charges is that they are "not justified by the facts." The corporation claims Minor's suit is an attempt to forestall legal action which was about to be brought against him concerning monies received from outside firms. A Chrysler spokesman has stated that the "full facts of Minor's conduct with the corporation will be revealed during litigation."

MINOR JOINS sued Chrysler President William C. Newberg in insisting he was made a "scapegoat" through efforts of corporation management to cover up mismanagement charges made by stockholder groups.

Referring to himself as a "sacrificial victim," Minor claims the corporation used him to avoid expected trouble from a Delaware stockholders' suit against the corporation.

Minor's suit contends that Harry E. Chesbrough, general manager of the Plymouth division, warned him that Chrysler and Colbert "might attempt to escape from the unfortunate predicament by using plaintiff (Minor) as 'scapegoats'."

NEWBERG filed a suit against Chrysler, seeking recovery of $455,000 in profits which he agreed to sign over to the corporation with his resignation as president of the firm June 30. The profits were made from firms doing business with Chrysler.

In his suit, Newberg charged that he was forced to resign after refusing to ignore evidence of misconduct, incompetence and waste among the corporation's top executives.

The suit, filed in Wayne Circuit Court, alleged that "false and fraudulent representations, undue influence, coercion and duress" were exercised upon him and his wife Dorothy, by Chrysler and its officials.

THE OUSTER of Newberg last June was a result of the corporation's claim that it had discovered conflicts of interests because of Newberg's holdings in two firms which made parts for Chrysler.

Newberg's 18-page brief stated that "Chrysler benefited greatly from the competitively favorable transactions entered into between Chrysler and the two vendor firms in which Newberg had an interest prior to 1958."

Noted Detroit attorney Joseph G. Quifford, Mrs. Ralph G. Moore, 3851 Oakhills; Mrs. Raymond N. Reid, 2820 Farmingdale; Mrs. William L. Scherer, 4553 Coachmaker; Mrs. Alvin H. Knorr, 1857 Bedford; Mrs. George R. Squibb, 1869 Glenhurst; Mrs. Eleanor Vinal, 1029 N. Woodward; Thoburn N. Wiant, 1331 Karen Lane; and Charles W. Wiggins, 734 Yarmouth.

Presidents Tobias

(Continued from 1-A)

and the date, Jan. 12, 1961, in the center. On the bottom half of the sheet was this poem:

Count your garden by the flowers.
Never by the leaves that fall.
Count your days by golden hours.
Don't remember clouds at all.
Count your nights by stars—not shadows.
Count your life with smiles—not tears.
And with joy through all your lifetime.
Count your age by friends—not years.

Enclosed in the letter was a business-type card encased in a plastic folder. As near as could be determined, it was a card for a copy fixing solution used by photographers.

THE LETTER was signed by Tobias, and included his address: Gaika Postal: 5-264, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Birmingham city officials indicated that they will now reprocure by sending Tobias some literature about Birmingham.

david k. falvey

15% dividend paid on Home Owners Policies

insurance agency
135 n. woodward, birmingham
midwest 4-7803

BIRMINGHAM BONUS DAYS SPECIALS

We are closing out selected KNIVES and CUTLERY

Carving sets, steak sets and misc. knives by such famous manufacturers as Carvel-Hall, Imperson, Flint and Imperial.

Savings to 50%

Fireplace Fixtures
Reduced 25%

- Screens
- Fire Sets
- Andirons
- Fireside Baskets
- Burning Baskets

Several Discontinued Styles
Samson Card Tables
25% Off

HUSTON HARDWARE CO.
SERVING BIRMINGHAM OVER 50 YEARS

205 N. WOODWARD MI 4-7300
Daily Delivery Service
Hours: Daily and Saturday 8 to 5:30; Friday 8 to 9
CLOSED ON SUNDAY

BLOOMFIELD
Birmingham, Mich. - Midwest 4-6006 - A United Detroit Theatre

NOW SHOWING ALL TECHNICOLOR SHOW

JERRY LEWIS AS CINDERELLA
(A Jerry Lewis Production)

ED WYNN JUDITH ANDERSON PLUS!

WALT DISNEY'S Jungle Cat

CHILDREN'S MATINEE SATURDAY "CINDERELLA" AND "JUNGLE CAT" CARTOONS & COMEDIES

DOORS OPEN 12:30 - BIRTHDAY PARTY GROUPS HONORED

STARTING SUNDAY "GOLIATH AND THE DRAGON" STARVE ALLEN MAMIE VAN DOREN IN "COLLEGE CONFIDENTIAL"

BIRMINGHAM
Birmingham, Mich. - Midwest 4-3533 - A United Detroit Theatre

LAST "FLAMING STAR" DAY - "ENEMY GENERAL" STARTING FRIDAY

ELVIS PRESLEY IN "FLAMING STAR"

PLUS-VAN JOHNSON IN "ENEMY GENERAL"

DOORS OPEN 12:30 P.M. - BIRTHDAY PARTY GROUPS HONORED

STARTS WED. - "BUTTERFIELD 8"

This Man

JOHN (DEAN) HOMORODEAN, MGR.

from White Floor Covering has your carpet and Linoleum problems on his mind...

He knows the answers, too, because carpets and linoleum are his career; your satisfaction his pleasure and pride. Come in today and see our truly wonderful selection of carpet, linoleum and vinyls. Braided Rugs and Braided Carpet are also here for your inspection... Call man, he'll bring samples to your home.

WILEY
216 N. Main St. Royal Oak
Black North of 11 Mile Rd.
LI 7-2080 LI 7-4511
Open Mon., Thurs., Fri. Even 11:30 P.M.