At Hidden Valley

Mr. and Mrs. William J. DeGrace (left) of Yorkshire Road, Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Schenck of Old Orchard Drive, Bloomfield Township, are relaxing in front of the fireplace in the Logmark at Hidden Valley, home of the Osage Ski Club near Gaylord. They were attending a four-day convention of the American Hospital-Medical Benefit and the American Community Mutual Insurance Co.

Recovered from all the gay debut parties yet?

The children became rather interested in pictures of the million dollar Mellon debut party in Maryland and the local do honoring Ann Ford, and wanted to know exactly what a debutante was and what having one of those parties meant. Did you ever try to explain this social phenomenon to small fry?

I floundered around with vague phrases about social launchings and was up lamely describing it as a declaration of open season on young dogs. Now that I think of it, shouldn't the whole system be reversed?

Socially acceptable young males (those with madras jackets, sport cars and pennants from eastern colleges) should have large whings and label themselves debutants (Webster recognized the truth by providing us with a masculine form of debutante). Doesn't it make more sense for the right girls (madras shorts, sport cars and pennants from eastern colleges) to know where to zero in their sights?

Don't feel too badly about the season ending and everyone going away for the summer. We still have the fun of the designer fashion predictions as to what we will be wearing this fall. There is bound to be conflict.

Designer Norman Norrell begins his wade into the business while the opposite camp has come out strongly for the Wyatt Earp hip-line which gives the hold-over effect (wonder if we could call that the Kenya direction). Our suits are to be body conscious (no comment) and the roaring twenties will exert the greatest influence in our winter wardrobe (how are you going to make bathtub gin in your season tab?). The fashion vocabulary continues as fascinating as ever (Fashion Magazines are funnier than Mad) with such descriptions as black dahlia purple, crunchy silks and the paper doll silhouette (they CANT mean that). A transparent jeweled muu muu was a sensation worn over a sheath at the New York showings and Philip Hulitar has again provided socialites with "after-dark fashions that are a way of life."

Now that your wardrobe has been settled we find that even your furniture cannot remain unattended. Paul McCobb has chided that lady in the white house for her antique leanings and scolded the rest of us for our too casual contemporary.

His new fall line of furniture is elegant and vertical, a feeling he likes to see reflected in all rooms of the home. This vertical theme is fine as far as I can see, and there may be more richness and depth to it as he claims—but what happens when you feel horizontal?

Party Girl

A round of parties has begun for Nancy Ann Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fischer of Cranbrook road who will become the bride of Michael Lutomski on Aug. 5. Among the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lutomski of Jefferson avenue east.
