

Birmingham - Bloomfield Hills Society Notes

When east meets midwest anything is liable to happen. And it did when a fashion wise little Chinese girl, Sweet Lo, met a couple of styling know-how in the person of freckle faced, blonde Margie Franzel, who owns two women's specialty shops near here.

The two girls met in 1959 at the World Trade's fair in Chicago where Miss Lo was presenting her clothes in the United States for the first time. The creative blonde took one look at the exotic brunette's sophisticated designs and sparks began to fly.

Last year they merged their ideas in Sweet Lo's 10 room apartment overlooking the harbor in Hong Kong. All I know about Hong Kong is what I learned from the World of Stacie Wong and the Huntley-Brinkley report (or is it Nutley-Kinkley?) Anyway, I can't imagine a more dynamic setting for the launching of a new fashion line.

SWEET LO'S background made it fairly simple for her to break from strict Chinese customs and go into business for herself. She is in Penang, Malaya, and co-operates with her family into the jungle when it was bombed the same day as Pearl Harbor. She wore little boys shirts and pants as a disguise for self protection against the Japanese invaders throughout her months of wandering during the war. Her custom designing began in Malaya where she had married and was raising her three children.

Friends began requesting so many of her own garments which she designed that she began making gowns for other people to protect her own wardrobe.

Miss Lo, remembering her own experiences as a displaced person now employs 60 refugees from the mainland of China. All of her beaded fabrics are hand done and her new line runs from the traditional cheongsam to luxurious fully beaded evening gowns.

My favorite was an after ski or lounge outfit of royal blue silk pants and overshoes with a set-in yoke of elegant beading. Hats off to Margie Franzel for bringing oriental splendor so close to home.

Real Rouser

Geed, dad, it's a bandura! In case you didn't know, a bandura is the national Ukrainian instrument, a sort of cross between a lute and a harp, and we're going to have a mass of them at the Tuesday night June 20, during the Arts Festival.

The Ukrainian Bandurist chorus combines bandura music with choral culture and right in Detroit is the largest and most professional chorus of its type in the world. It was organized in Poltava (Ukraine) in 1929, became a state chorus in 1935 and toured in all field hills.

Cannes Caper

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Kiefer met in Milan last month and have been traveling in Spain, Italy and Greece on business. They attended the Triumphant in Turin and the International Film Festival in Cannes. Before returning home they visited the Scandinavian countries.

Attending Convention

Mrs. John Clark of Henrietta Street, Birmingham, will entertain today with a pre-convention party for Detroit area Kappa Delta alumnae who plan to attend the 34th national convention of the sorority in Roanoke, Va., June 23-26. Attending the convention will be Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Edwin F. Cavanaugh and Mrs. Donald Weldon of Bloomfield Hills.

Slick Sporrans

The same evening, Tuesday, June 20, and sharing the bill with the Bandurists, will be the famous Essex and Kent Scottish pipe band. We're hoping to persuade them to march down Maple to the park that we will be tilling and we can all go roamin' in the gloamin' together.

Mrs. Irving A. Duffy honored bride elect Patii Bagan last month at Bloomfield Open Hunt. Mrs. Walter J. Bomb and Mrs. Ernest B. Brooch entertained for Patii and Irving at the country club. After her June 12 graduation from Denison she will return to Bloomfield Hills for final wedding preparations.

Fowl Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Adams go Mallard-Drummond amphibian, that is, when they travel to their summer home on an island at Lees Choiseaux. They land in front of the cottage with their supplies and remain isolated until the last duck leaves for civilization ("?) Birmingham!

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, Sandra chose a silk organza gown designed with a bell-shaped skirt of bouffant silk organza, scoop neckline with tiny scallops and a basque bodice. A girl box of silk organza secured her shoulder length veil of French silk illusion. She carried a prayer book covered with white orchids, ivy and stephanotis.

Honor attendant was Ruth Ann Heinrich and bridesmaids were Miss Douglas Goodfellow, Sally Jo Hesselbacher and Cynthia Will. They wore light blue organza dresses with bell-shaped skirts. Matching doll pin hats and bouquets of lavender flowers with ivy completed their ensemble.

LAWRENCE WILLIS stood as best man and ushers were Thomas J. O'Donnell, Ronald Hitter and William Ward Lewis.

THE THEMES OF "The Classics Theatre of the Air," a recently rediscovered U. of D. rock anthem, will be sung on the program by the U. of D. Quartette which includes Richard Cannady, 29400 Brooks Lane, Southfield.

At one time or another, 50 Michigan cities were the manufacturing sites of 315 different makes of automobiles. Detroit alone has been the home city of 170 different makes of cars.

Two B'ham Youths Will Be on Radio

Two Birmingham youths will take part in a University of Detroit High school radio dramatization of "The Trojan Horse" on station WDRS at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Robert Magill, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Magill, Sr., 1234 Willow Lane, and Charles E. Brownell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brownell, Sr., 3239 Dorchester, are among the cast of four U. of D. High School Latin students. Magill also assisted in writing the adaptation from Virgil's "Aeneid."

The broadcast, believed to be the first Latin language radio dramatization outside of The Vatican radio in Rome, will be heard as the initial offering of U. of D.'s "Classics Theatre of the Air."

Newlywed Terry Wilsons

Christ Church Cranbrook was the scene May 27 for the marriage of Sandra Lyne Heinrich and Perry Wayne Wilson. The Rev. Gerald B. O'Grady performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 125 guests. Vows were heard at 2 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heinrich of E. Maple Road, Birmingham. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McAlouse of Saiclaw.

MRS. TERRY WILSON

green silk sheath with matching accessories. Mother of the bride-groom selected a pale yellow knit sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers had cymbidium orchids.

The reception immediately followed at Rotunda Inn on Pine Lake.

THE NEWLYWEDS are honeymooning in St. Thomas, St. Johns, Haiti and Jamaica. For traveling, Sandra chose a navy two-piece dress with matching accessories. Upon return they will live in Royal Oak.

The largest sculpted figure of the crucified Christ (31 feet tall) is at Michigan's Indian River Shrine.

Honor Former Road Chiefs

Murray D. Van Wagoner (extreme left), 3890 Oakland, Bloomfield Township, among Michigan's eight former highway commissioners recently honored as the men who transformed the state's muddy roads into 9,300 miles of paved highway in 50 years. State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie, who has named roadside parks for each of the eight, presented the awards. Van Wagoner is a former governor and served as highway commissioner from 1933-

40. Other former commissioners (from left) are Charles O. Ward of Alma, 1909-13; Sawyer Earle of Detroit, 1903-09; Mrs. Bertha Ziegler of Lansing, widow of Charles M. Ziegler, 1943-57; Mackie; G. Donald Kennedy of Chicago, 1940-42; Fred F. Rogers of Howell, 1913-29; and Lloyd B. Reid of Detroit, 1942-43. Grover C. Dillman of Houghton, who held office 1929-33, now lives in Florida and did not attend.

Newlywed Terry Wilsons Nancy Marie Lemhagen Weds John R. Gormley

Our Lady Star of the Sea Church was the scene Saturday for the marriage of Nancy Marie Lemhagen and John Robert Gormley. The Rev. Ralph V. Barton performed the noon ceremony.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. James Victor Lemhagen of Grosse Pointe Park and Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Gormley of Jackson Park Drive, Birmingham.
