Request Check On Downspout Hardship Case

BEVERLY HILLS—Three residents concerned about the approaching April 15 deadline for disconnecting downspouts asked for assistance Monday night from council officials.

James Webb, 17150 Beverly Road, stated that his property was lower than that owned by neighbors behind him and that disconnection of their downspout would cause serious flood damage to his home.

TWO OTHER MEN, neighbors of Webb, also protested because of the same situation.

Village Manager Robert Murphy was directed by the council to send engineers to the area to investigate the possibility of hardship resulting from the disconnection.

CUSTOM TAILORED TO ITS SITE

It fits its interesting terrain as flawlessly as we could imagine a Bond Street tailor fitting a Chief of Protocol of the British Foreign Office at No. 10 Downing Street. Observe the interesting roof treatment in the picture above, the quiet dignity of the window arrangement.

Step inside. You are in a wide foyer, looking to the north through pleasant windows at open countryside. To the right is a hall leading to the master bedroom and the guest room, each with its separate bath. The quality and decor of the three bedrooms would satisfy a fastidious, bath-conscious Roman Emperor were he alive today.

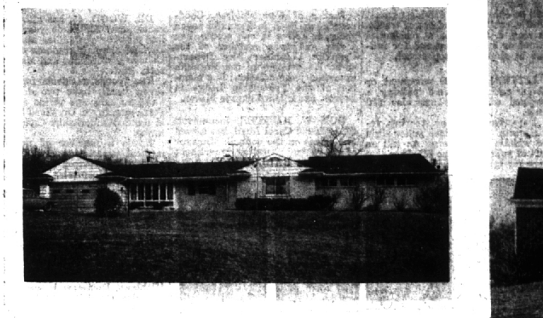

The kitchen, planned by the head of the Home Economics Department of Michigan State, the beamed Keeping Room with its barbecue, laundry room on the first floor, and a third bedroom and superb bath must be seen to be fully appreciated.

A Studio Room, six steps up from the main level, with windows on three sides, has random width flooring, mammoth closets. You will see great possibilities here for a hobby room, playroom or guest apartment.

Just imagine the best and you won't be disappointed. See it today. You will be enthralled.
