Group for Traffic Safety Starts Poster Campaign

A unique program featuring three different traffic safety posters, which point up how most persons died in traffic last year, was launched last week by the Traffic Safety Association.

The Detroit Police Department Accident Prevention Bureau reports showed that automobile passenger deaths rose 59 per cent in Detroit last year compared with the previous year. During the same period, driver deaths went up 47 per cent.

As a result, the Association devised these posters, which are being erected now on street-side standards in Detroit. One poster points up the driver increase, another the passenger rise, and the third advises drivers to "Keep Your Car Under Control."

Set Parking Limit at P.O. In Birmingham

A 15-minute parking limitation seven days a week has been recommended in front of the Birmingham Post Office by highway consultant T. M. Vanderstempel.

The limit will be tried on a temporary basis before a permanent decision is made by the city commission. Vanderstempel also recommended elimination of one parking space for creation of a loading zone for Baldwin Public Library at Bates and Martin.

WHEN THE NEW department store starts business at Oakland and Woodward, parking on the north side of Oakland will have to be eliminated, the consultant said. The street is too narrow to meet the traffic and parking needs that will develop once the store opens.

As for Birmingham's temporary mail, Vanderstempel said it created an increase of block circling while in existence this winter. He said the mail increased east-bound traffic on Maple between Bates and Henrietta. The mail proved to be a controversy as to its effectiveness and beauty.

Begin Study Meetings In Troy on X-Way

TROY — The first of several informal study meetings on the proposed route of the Chrysler Expressway through the city will be held tonight at 7:30.

The city commission plans to consider each interchange, bridge, road closing and exact location of the route before calling in highway department representatives to discuss any changes that may be wanted.

Meanwhile State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie addressed Troy residents on March 7, giving them a timetable for construction preliminaries of the route.

Mackie, on a campaign tour through South Oakland, said actual construction in Troy will begin in May, 1962 and said preliminary appraisals of land for X-way right-of-way have begun in a minor way. Major portion of appraisals will begin within the next couple months, Mackie said, and residents will be told the exact appraisal within 90 days.

THE HIGHWAY commissioner said bids will be opened for the entire route from 11 Mile to a point near Pontiac in September with contract letting shortly afterward.

The City Commission recently received a resolution, from the Highway Department, of the route through Troy but did not give final approval.

The commission will discuss widening of Rochester Road, between 16 Mile and 20 Mile Roads, when it meets with highway department representatives following the study meetings.

In his campaign appearance before the residents, Mackie was asked the reason for putting an interchange at Adams and 19 Mile Road, a residential area. Mackie said it was because of the anticipated number of cars that would leave the expressway at that point and because of the need for safety.

ON THE ADAMS interchange as well as the Stephenson, Rochester Road and 16 Mile interchange, Mackie said the department is not contemplating any changes in what it has already planned.

This contrasted with a number of statements made the same evening in which Mackie commented, "Everything is still in the diagrammatical state, in other words"

THE DEPARTMENT of Streets and Traffic Sign Shop is alternating the posters as they erect them. The Accident Prevention Bureau reported that 66 of the 110 fatal accidents charged to driver violations were directly attributable to "car not under control." In most of these cases, speeds too fast for conditions were involved.

MICHIGAN STATE Police reports revealed an approximate 10 per cent increase in driver-passenger deaths, with "car not under control" figuring prominently among the causes. For this reason only one poster dealing directly with this problem will be posted in outstate areas.

State Police say that factors leading to the "car not under control" cause are inattention, fatigue, carelessness, intoxication and driving too fast for conditions.

An arts council is moving closer to reality for the Birmingham-Bloomfield area as individuals and representatives of community organizations interested in the arts continue work on the project.

At the meeting of 20 arts council enthusiasts at Birmingham Community House, Thom reviewed the project's goals for promoting, strengthening and coordinating the cultural life of the community.
