How About a Newsy Letter for Mother?

I am sure thoughts such as these have crossed many minds: "I hope Mother's Day doesn't become commercialized to the point of distaste"; or, "Thank koodness Mother's Day is one special occasion which can't be overdone. It is what it was intended to be, a day set aside to pay tribute to mother."

But, sad to say, we can become a slave to an idea more the become a slave we are not living up to the best in ourselves. We are not thinking.

The successful man who can afford to send his mother beautiful flowers across the country would do better take a quiet hour and write her a long newsy letter, something he doesn't have time to do ordinarily.

thing he doesn't have time to do ordinarily.

IT WOULD please her more and bring him closer than the most expensive present. Even the long distance phone call doesn't mean as much as a letter she can read over and over again.

In fact, I sometimes wonder whether Mother's Day for some mothers isn't a day of rallying all the understanding and ingenuity possible to prevent her poor, misguided children's feeling from being hurt.

I would enjoy reading of the most sincere and nicest thing that children did for their mothers, as well as hearing eulogies on "mothers of the year."

THIS 189 he day in the year it seems to me that could escapes the ballyhoo of commercialism if everyone would be a little more thoughtful and do what they know mother would enjoy instead of letting the advertisers tell them what to do and what to buy and what to buy.

Mother's Day comes at a heavenly time of the year and mothers are heavenly but let's not be more generous with our money than with them they mean nothing.
