Water Witching

Q. This isn't a medical question, but do you believe in water witching?

A. We don't believe in witching of any kind—including the wet variety. Many people will disagree with our views regarding the diviner's rod, but we might as well be honest: If readers who are seriously interested in the history and analysis of this bit of humbug will drop us a line, we will supply the name of an interesting book which explores the subject thoroughly.

Meat Tenderizers

Q. Our butcher admits that he uses something to "tenderize" his meats. Is it harmful to eat such meat?

A. The enzyme, "papain," is commonly used commercially to tenderize meat. Cooking destroys or inactivates the enzyme, so no harmful effects would be expected from meat tenderized in this way.

Patchy Baldness

Q. I have a patchy bald spot on the nape of my neck. Can anything be done to make hair grow on the bald spot?

A. New York doctors studied the problem of baldness in almost 600 patients. Several types of baldness, including the patchy kind called alopecia areata, responded to injections of certain testosterone-like products. However, the new hair fell out within six to nine months after treatment was stopped. Baldness of every variety continues to be a tough and as yet unsolved problem.

Pregnancy Age Limit

Q. Please settle an argument. What is the oldest age at which childbirth has occurred?

A. Pregnancy after 48 years of age is rare. However, one American doctor reports delivering the first child of a 49-year-old patient who delivered the last of her several children at age 52.

Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity, brief and general in nature and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians.
