

Students Named To May Day Court

Two Birmingham college students, Barbara Langley and Sue Salkait, have been named to the May Day Court at Saint Mary-of-the-Woods College, Saint Mary-of-the-Woods (near Terre Haute), Ind.

Miss Langley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper, 1454 Maryland. Miss Salkait is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Shukait, 12553 Kirtshire.

The traditional activity, held this year on May 20, began with several national and modern dances performed by the College students before the Court.

Miss Langley, a graduate of Seaboard High School, is a biology major with a minor in chemistry. Miss Salkait is an art major, also a graduate of Seaboard High School.

Student Receives Junior Art Award

At the traditional Honors Day held recently at Sullivan University, Suella Saxe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Saxe, 1576 Kirkway Road, Bloomfield Hills, was presented the Junior Art Award.

This award was presented to Miss Saxe as the outstanding art student in the junior class, for her progress as an artist and for her progress as an art student during the school year.

Women all over America are saying "Thank you" to RUTH STOUT for her refreshing guide to easier, more enjoyable living It's A Woman's World

If you're tired and trapped by the never-ending round of cooking, cleaning, coping with children—if you never seem to have time to yourself—then this new book is for you. Thousands of women are finding that it's better than sulphur and molasses as a spring tonic. Here are just a few of the wonderful letters Ruth Stout has received—from wives and mothers (and even a few men!) who have taken time from their busy days to tell her how much help her book has given them.

"It has helped me more than any medicine my doctors prescribed this week! I've ordered three more copies for friends."—Mrs. A.H., Rochester, N.Y.

"God bless you for writing this book. It has helped me more as a woman than anything I have ever read."—Mrs. C.H., Durham, N.C.

"Count one more admirer among your many. I've read It's A Woman's World and I now think I understand women and their situation better than I did."

—Mr. R.P., Stearns, Ill.

"It contains the very BEST of everything, and is packed with more common sense than any one person has a right to have. I've written with your many readers in telling you it has given me a new life as a wife and mother of two small children."

—Mrs. E.M., Danlison, Conn.

"Thank you for showing a fifty year old mother of five and grandmother of four who has lived through this week that I'm not alone and can enjoy my life as you have—and do it as graciously as you, I hope!"

—Mrs. A.P.H., Newport, R.I.

"These readers have discovered what you will discover in It's A Woman's World—that although no book can clean your house or cook your dinner, this book can really help you cope with chores more easily and with more enjoyment . . . and can show you how to find the freedom and energy for the things you want to do. Here's down-to-earth advice on cooking, cleaning, entertaining, budgets, gadgets, and getting on better with Ruth Stout's family-tested recipes, wise tips on shopping, and sensible suggestions for getting along with husbands, relatives and friends.

Like Ruth Stout's first book, How to Have a Green Thumb Without an Aching Back, it isn't preachy—it's personal and chatty, with many witty and revealing anecdotes. Send for a copy today for 10 days' free examination. See if it doesn't give your life a lift.
