Kingswood School Academy of the Sacred Heart

By JUDY WIANT
Special Writer

When Hockey Play-Day, held on Nov. 4 at Grosse Pointe Convent, came to a close, 12 Kingswood girls had either won positions on the three teams or were cited for honorable mention.

The seventh grade has chosen its officers for the 1961-62 school year. They are: Charles McMath, vice-president; Kris Vandenberg, secretary; Julie Frank; treasurer; and Morton Student Council representative, Ann Davies.

ON FRIDAY, Kingswood's Student Council presented its American Field Service project. Students purchasing tickets heard Jean Louisa Couture, Granbrook's APS student from France, and Graham Gladwell from England, speak about their respective countries.

In their short talks, each told about his own country, comparing our schools and social life with theirs.

ON SPARTAN BOARD

Harris B. Armstrong, son of H. Armstrong of Lane Lake Road, Bloomfield Hills; and Carol A. Cochran, daughter of D. C. Cochran of Indianwood Drive, Birmingham, have been picked to be on the Spartan Hi-Wagon Board of Representatives at Michigan State University.

That following summer she was caseworker at the University of Michigan's Fresh Air Camp for emotionally disturbed boys. Her second year fieldwork was at the Veteran's Readjustment Center, a psychiatric unit of the Neuropsychiatric Institute of the University of Michigan.

B'field Hills Lancers

By LINDA FEGLEY
Special Writer

Alarm clocks have been ringing at an earlier hour than usual for many B'FIELD students who have roles in the ninth grade play. The man behind these early risers is Mr. Harry Drummond, the drama teacher.

The cast for this play, which is a comedy-mystery, will consist of approximately 30 players. Mr. Drummond and his secretary, Sally Eshman, announced the holders of the parts on Nov. 8.

The cast is as follows: Gretchen Twietmeyer, Linda Fegley, Bill McNaughton, Ron Matheny, Dabby Dewitt, Mike Roger, Marilyn Laughlin, Dud DeNador, Sue Sweeney, Scott Thomas.

Barb Charters, Sue Pinney, Sally Lafer, Ingrid Anderson, Linda Wilson, Barb Calhoun and Kirk Falvey, Ellen Serra, Robin Brown, Edie Rossan, Sandy Hichson, Pat Cooks, Karen Trimmer, Larry Rudy, John Liles, John Bird, Sandy Tauber, Mary Lou Snyder, Nancy Jasaitas, and Sue Wiant.

The performance is scheduled for March 30, 1961.

Now that the confusion of getting accustomed to the hours and demands of school has subsided, many new clubs at Bloomfield Hills Junior High School.

The Pep Club has been in the process of formation ever since the beginning of the football season.

but is just now putting the finishing touches on its policies.

The officers are Betty Sherman, president; Fernie Casey, vice-president; Pat Cooke, secretary; and Nancy Dearborn, treasurer.

Sweaters with "Pep Club" emblems will arrive in December, right in time for the basketball season.

Mrs. Lotus Young, the sponsor, has made it fun to possess school spirit.

THE SERVING CLUB is a rather recent idea. The girls in this club help at such functions as teachers' banquets, principals' and athletic banquets, and the like.

Each girl has a minimum number of times she must serve during the year to keep her membership in the club.

Some of the girls have volunteered their services on the committees of rules of etiquette and rules and regulations of the Serving Club. Sally Eshman, Lynn Scott, Mary Lou Snyder, Gretchen Twietmeyer, and Sue Sweeney are those who have volunteered for the above mentioned committees.

Other members of the club who will be serving during the year are Joyce Giedeman, Betty Michalski, Chan Chandler, Sandy Tauber, Vickie Brown, Linda Fegley, Karen Hubie, Lynn Roland, Linda Siskies, Marilyn Temple and Connie Bosch.

Others are Lianne Cappell, Nancy Kitchen, Nancy Scotten, Jane Bartek, Linda Frankel, Joan Ketchner, Cindy Brower and Debbie Clark.
