Rambling Road Coffees Becoming a Tradition

CRANBROOK VILLAGE — A added a new member to their family. It is five Steven Bert, born Sept. 14.

His mother is the former Jeanette E. Forzverer and Steven's grandparents are the E. A. Linders of Bloomfield Hills. Another very important member of the family is little Andrea who is 1 1/2.

The Linders like to refresh furniture and hope to have a studio in their basement one of these days where they can work at interests in crafts and "do-it-yourself" projects. Mrs. Linders also plans to renew her hobby photography and will certainly have two charming little models right at home.

Then there are the Kenneth P. Johnsons who moved not too long ago from Jamestown, N. Y., where they were almost life-long residents. They are now residing on Webster.

They have a married son and daughter and three grandsons and both the Johnsons enjoy gardening and bridge.

SOUTHFIELD — A demonstration and workshop on terrariums and dried flower arrangements will be the program for the Monday meeting of the Riverwoods Garden Club at the home of Mrs. John Campbell. The meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Donald Webb of the Rose-dale Progressive Club will conduct the demonstration.

Mrs. Stephen Balabaner, Mrs. Kenneth Barry, Mrs. Cleve Nixon and Mrs. Arthur VanDugteran will provide mosses and berries for the workshop, having acquired their collection during a three-day visit at Mrs. Balabaner's cottage on the Ausable.

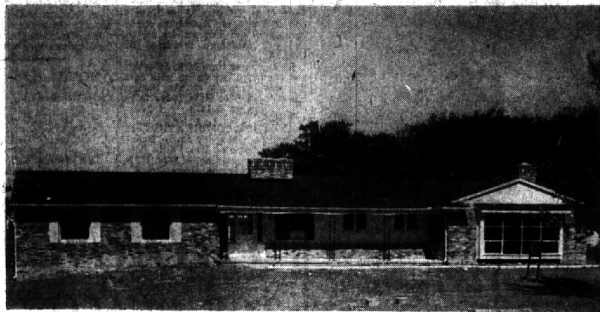

LATHRUP — A continuing fund for the purpose of acquiring city land can be established, City Attorney Everett Hayes advised council members Monday night.

The question was raised by Councilman Vincent Zetell at a council meeting Sept. 4. Officials have been concerned about the land problem as related to DPW storage area. At intervals over the last few years, interest has also been expressed by city fathers in acquiring property for city offices and related uses.

THE CITY NOW uses DPW property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Kelley for DPW storage. City offices are also located in Kelley-owned property, the House-in-the-Woods.

Hayes said a continuing fund could be allowed for in the budget out of a general taxation funds under the 7 1/2 mill limitation. In a written opinion, Hayes said such a fund would not conflict with the city charter nor with state statutes.
