Association Opposes Widening Maple Road

The Birmingham Estates Association has notified the city commission that it opposes the proposed widening of E. Maple Road. In a letter to the commission, association president Loren T. Robinson, Jr., referred to the widening proposed in the recently announced county road improvement plan.

It calls for improving Maple to four lanes from Coolidge west to Adams.

Robinson stated, "A similar but, if memory serves, less extensive widening was proposed approximately one year ago and was turned down after a public hearing at which the association and many other residents, objected."

"As you will recall," Robinson stated, "a similar but, if memory serves, less extensive widening was proposed approximately one year ago and was turned down after a public hearing at which the association and many other residents, objected."

widening would be wasteful, and inasmuch as all Birmingham taxpayers are also Oakland County taxpayers, the fact that a substantial portion of the expense will be borne by the county is immaterial.

"We further believe that the loss of trees involved... would, under the circumstances, be a tragedy."

City Manager L. R. Gare pointed out that the commission last week granted tentative approval to the county project, but with reservations about the proposed Maple and 14 Mile Road improvements.

"It is our opinion... that such a widening cannot be justified at this time. We believe that the spending of public funds for this

Traffic Deaths Highest During 3-Month Period

The last three months of the year are the harvest season for traffic fatalities in Michigan, nearly one-third of them occurring during this period, according to Sgt. Mike Ahgrim, commanding officer of the Pontiac State Police post.

"The wise driver and pedestrian will need no further reminder of the hazards encountered in fall and winter driving or walking and will proceed with care and alertness," he said.

State Police records for the last 25 years show that October, November and December account for an average of 30 per cent of the annual toll of traffic deaths. Last year the loss in lives for the three months was 487.

"MANY DRIVERS and pedestrians, accustomed to good driving and walking conditions in the summer, fail to adjust themselves when these good conditions become worse with the change in unfavorable weather with its sleet, ice and snow, and the shorter days that mean many more hours of darkness," Sgt. Ahgrim observed.

"Their failure to do so means more injuries and deaths, all of which could be avoided by using prudence and driving or walking protectively."

Sgt. Ahgrim offers these safety tips:

To drivers: Increase your vigilance. Take it easy in bad weather and after dark. Increase your caution at hills, curves and intersections, as there may be ice or snow. Be careful at railroad crossings, especially where banks of snow may obscure vision. Faithfully obey the traffic laws and signs and watch out for the motorist or pedestrian who may not be watching you.
