This & That

ern technological process thus far invented.
CHRYSLER President Townsend said, employs 82,000 people; has assets of one billion, 300 million dollars; services 6,000 dealers; buys from 11,000 suppliers; and boasts of more than 11 million owners of cars and trucks.
Truly, symbolic of the great industry represented by Chrysler, General Motors, Ford, American Motors, Studebaker, together with many truck manufacturers, the "horseless carriage" has literally changed much of the life of human beings.
Indeed, the man who first formed material into a crude wheel discovered one of the most important mechanical steps in mankind's development of his physical world. Little did he know how much economic wealth he was unleashing upon a human society destined to utilize the wheel.

Loading his luggage into the camp station wagon is the first Camp Oakland resident to be sent to college by the camp, Paul Frey (left). He gets help from Director William J. Matus.

Registration Open For Classes at Community House

Registrations for the fall series of adult craft and hobby classes at the Community House are progressing rapidly with more than 525 persons enrolled, according to Miss Myra Rowman, director of adult education.
While classes in some subjects have been filled, there are still vacancies in other classes. These include the language courses, Russian, Spanish and French; publicity basics, a new course being offered for the first time this year; art appreciation; and accounting-book-keeping.
Two courses have been added to the 19 different subjects available at the Community House: a Saturday afternoon class in painting for children, and a second course in first aid, which will be of particular interest to sisters.

First Camp Oakland Youth Off to College

By JULIE CANDLER
Special Writer
The good wishes of hundreds of Birmingham and Oakland County residents went with 18-year-old Paul Frey as he left Sunday for college.
Paul is the first young man to be sent to college by Camp Oakland, where he and other young wards of Oakland County Probate Court live at Boys' Ranch and Girls' Ranch, near Oxford.
Though Paul is earning much of his own way through Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant, he needed help to get there.
The Birmingham Exchange Club supplied it. The men's service club promised to take care of Paul's tuition fees for his entire four-year college career.
OTHER GROUPS and private individuals have contributed to a special scholarship fund set up for Paul by the camp. It will help him meet the high cost of a college education.
Camp Oakland's leaders found it easy to convince donors that Paul deserved their support. Camp representatives had only to tell of the bright young student's accomplishments at Oxford High School to prove their point about Paul.
In three years he attended football, baseball and basketball. He served on the Student Council. The school's French Club selected him vice president.
The Oxford Rotary Club awarded him a scholarship at Interlochen Music Camp and the Michigan Choral selected him to tour Europe with their group one summer.

Paul became an outstanding young citizen of the town where he and other Boys' Ranch residents attend school and church and participate in the community life.
THINGS HADN'T always gone so well for Paul. He had lived nine years of his life in an orphanage in Germany, the country where he was born. When he came to the United States, he was still without a secure home and adequate parental care.
When Paul arrived at Camp Oakland, he was unhappy, disturbed, and a poor student.
Now, Camp Oakland's directors and supporters are proud of Paul's response to his new environment. Says Camp Oakland President Walter Gahrke, "Paul has become a most successful young man. We are proud of his character and pleased with his accomplishments."
ALREADY bi-lingual because of his ability to speak English and his native German, Paul hopes to add French, Russian and Spanish to his language repository in college.
He wants to become a military interpreter or a teacher, or fill one of the many multi-lingual roles for which there is tremendous demand in today's world.
Though Paul is the first to be sent to college from Camp Oakland since it began in 1953, the camp's directors believe others will follow his example.
At least, when other deserving young Boys' Ranch residents express the desire for a college education, Camp Oakland will do everything possible to lend them a hand, says Camp Director William J. Matus.
