Talk of the Towns

couraged with our area. One might get the impression that the majority of patrons are forever slipping tea at some benefit or hitting a ball on a golf course or putting on their bowling shoes while a paid sitter tends to the needs and wants of their offspring.

"There are, Cornelia, just as many who are tying bibs on babies, sipping coffee from their own cups while wrestling with laundry and picking up litter from front rooms—and doing this all week long.

"How ever, it wouldn't be fair to what Cornelia brought up so deftly and concretely to admit that we, compared to the national standard, do enjoy many pleasures that people 100 miles beyond us never embrace.

"Let us not hide behind ignorance.
"We do realize that we possess more golf courses, bowling alleys, country clubs and swimming pools than other communities. (You've gotta spend money with spare dollars.) These spots require patrons. Patrons with spare dollars that are left over from the necessities of living.

"Here, maybe, is where Cornelia got her smooth deductions. Who is tending to the kids when mother disappears for one of these places? And if she does it too frequently, Cornelia says, the offspring suffer. They fall into mischief and sometimes actual delinquency, Cornelia fears.

"But, thank you Cornelia for writing your thoughts. You've made us do some thinking about ourselves. We shouldn't take our easy lives for granted."

An INVESTMENT in your future. To provide for your anticipated retirement needs five, ten, or even twenty years from now, requires careful planning of your investments today.

Preparedness means sound, workable plans for orderly evacuations. It means bomb shelters.

BOMB SHELTERS cost money. How to get them is the BIG question. I think I have one possibility to offer: Proceeds from vending machines.

AS I SAID, I'm frightened. I have no bomb shelter for my family. And no money with which to build one. But I can sure buy a couple soft drinks a day to help pay for one that you could use.
