

Patricia Ford Joy Weds Mr. Darmon

At a late afternoon ceremony solemnized April 5 in the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Patricia Ford Joy, daughter of Mrs. James H. Carmel of West Long Lake, Bloomfield Hills, and William Moore Joy spoke her marriage vows to Alain Darmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Darmon, of Algiers.

For her wedding, Patricia wore a white peau de soie gown fashioned with a square neckline and court train of unusual floating panels applied with medallions of heirloom lace. Her finger-tip-length veil of handmade Duchesse lace had been worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Schlottman of Grosse Pointe. The bride carried a bouquet of white calla lilies and ivy.

JOSEPHINE BOURNE JOY and Victoria Ford Joy were their sister's only attendants. They wore rose-hued gowns of tissue faille fashioned with full skirts and modified bustles. The elbow-length sleeves and scoop-necked bodices were delicately embroidered in matching lace. They carried round bouquets of variegated pink and white camellias and trailing ivy, which picked up the pink in their veiled headbands.

James H. Carmel was best man for Mr. Darmon.

For her granddaughter's wedding, Mrs. Schlottman chose a cornflower blue crepe dress with bodice and sleeves trimmed in matching lace. She wore a hat of blue cornflowers. Mrs. Richard Joy, the bride's paternal grandmother, wore a blue gown with a distinctive lace bodice and chiffon skirt. She wore a matching veil.

Mrs. Carmel chose rose antique silk designed by Rudolph for her daughter's wedding. It was made with three-quarter sleeves, scoop neckline and a bell-shaped skirt with broad interwoven bands of the same material at the top. Her hat was a narrow circlet of rose silk, its tiny veil sprinkled with small rose-colored flowers. Her corsage was of white butterfly orchids.

THE RECEPTION took place immediately following the ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carmel, where a marquee on the lake side of the house was arranged for supper and dancing. Small circular tables were covered in pink and centered by miniature hurricane lamps ringed by pink and red roses. Pink and red roses also decorated the green topiary trees at the entrance to the marquee and at the entrance to the porch, where additional tables were placed.

For traveling, Mrs. Darmon wore a gray silk wool suit with matching ornamental braiding, trimming the jacket and a matching veil. Her coat was a rough textured wool of bright yellow, and she wore a corsage of gardenias.

Following a two-week wedding trip to the Virgin Islands, Mr. and Mrs. Darmon will return to Bloomfield Hills to spend Easter with the Carmels. They will then leave for Geneva, Switzerland, where Mr. Darmon will resume his studies at L'Ecole d'Architecture of the University of Geneva.

Carl Ingraham and William Beasley will present the award, which recognizes the League contribution to the Legal Aid Society.

Day in Capitol Is on AAUW Spring Agenda

An exciting day was spent in Lansing by members of Birmingham branch of American Association of University Women last Thursday. They were guests of Representative Elmer Hogan at the joint session of the House and Senate at which Governor Swainson spoke.

The occasion was Legislation Day, planned for members of AAUW from throughout the state, and it began with talks to members on "Financing Education in Michigan" by Representative Alison Green, Harold Brown, Finance Chief, Michigan Department of Education, and Dr. M. M. Chambers, Executive Director, Michigan Council of State College Presidents.

Representative Hogan was guest of Birmingham AAUW at luncheon and Dr. Clyde M. Campbell, Executive Secretary, Michigan Association for School Administrators, spoke afterwards. Representative Elmer Hogan of Waterford was a guest also. Senator Farrell Roberts was unable to leave the Senate floor because of discussion on taxation.

AFTER THREE DAYS of discussion a coalition of moderate Republicans and nine Democrats provided the vote needed to discharge Governor Swainson's tax bill from the Senate Tax Committee, that sought to prevent it from coming to a vote before the deadline, and to bring it onto the floor for debate and discussion. This is the first time since 1912 that anyone had succeeded in taking a bill out of a Senate committee.

These maneuverings were witnessed by AAUW members just before the joint session of the House and Senate convened. They were introduced by Representative Elmer Hogan to the assembled members of the Legislature.

Attending were Mrs. Preston R. Weir, president of Birmingham AAUW; Mrs. H. S. McFarland, Mrs. George Mosher, Mrs. Peter Loomis, Mrs. William H. Jackson, Mrs. Lynn A. Townsend, Mrs. Marvin E. Marsh, Mrs. Frazer F. Hilder, Mrs. E. B. Schink and Mrs. Dorman B. Dickerson Jr.

Newcomers Club Sets Up Agenda For Spring

Genevieve "Tap" Hazard, one of America's leading advertising executives, will be the speaker for a luncheon-meeting of the Birmingham Community House Newcomers Club April 19. Reservations for this luncheon will be taken until noon, April 16, by Mrs. Norman Amberg, Mrs. Horace Calkins, Mrs. L. Gilbert Clark or Mrs. Stuart Jamie.

The Book Review Group will have Elaine Nagel of the Village Book Shop, whose topic will be "Suggested Spring Reading." Those wishing to attend this meeting April 20, at 12:30 at the Community House, may make reservations by calling Mrs. Harry Breske or Mrs. Lloyd Schafer.

Sewing season is over for the Newcomers Club, except for the luncheon which will be April 17 at Kingsley Inn. New officers for next year will be President, Mrs. William Keener; Vice-President, Mrs. Royce Benjamin; Newcomer Secretary, Mrs. William Shutt; Newcomer Treasurer, Mrs. Keith Cunningham; Postcomer Secretary, Mrs. Helen Appleby; Postcomer Treasurer, Mrs. Glenna Daniels.

At Confab

The women's auxiliary of the Michigan State Dental Association held its 20th annual convention earlier this week in Grand Rapids.

Attending from Birmingham were Mrs. Stewart Scott, financial secretary, and Mrs. Weir Burkman and Mrs. Francis Rennell, board members.

Top Service Award Is Earned By Birmingham Woman's Club

The annual President's Day Tea of the Birmingham Woman's Club on April 3 was highlighted by the announcement of club president, Mrs. Hans Schjolin, of the winning of the Top Service Award by the Birmingham Woman's Club.

Mrs. Schjolin, the delegate, received the award at the Awards Luncheon of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs in convention at Battle Creek March 27, 28 and 29. This award is given annually to the club making the largest per capita contribution to the club federation project, Girls' Town at Belleville, Mich. This event marks the first time the award has ever been won locally.

AS A SYMBOL of the high honor, a silver platter to be engraved with the name of the Birmingham Woman's Club was presented to Mrs. Schjolin at the convention by Mrs. Nell Dalby, State Chairman of Girls' Town. This platter will remain on permanent exhibition at Loch Rio of Girls' Town, as it is commonly referred to.

This local club raised $1,400 recently for its two main projects, Girls' Town and Camp Oakland from the sale of its cook book, "Secrets from the Birmingham Woman's Club" containing over 200 prized recipes with a special "Equire Section" made up of favorite recipes of male advertisers. The cook book is now in its second edition.

Other philanthropic causes receiving financial assistance from the Birmingham Woman's Club include the Birmingham Community House, Baldwin Library and March of Dimes. Federation projects receiving donations from this club include Scholarships for Nurses, Indian Scholarships, Penny Art Fund Bookmobile and Arboretum in Ann Arbor.

AMONG THE 17 honor guests present were the presidents of neighboring federated women's clubs and past presidents of the local club. Tea was served by the Literature Department with Mrs. Norman Berry as chairman. The program was a talk by William Hostetler of the FBI.

Mrs. William O. Merrill, of the Advisory Committee of Girls' Town, gave a brief explanatory talk on the home. At the present time there are nine girls housed there who receive aid from outstanding social agencies in the State, such as the University of Michigan Children's Hospital, Hawthorne Center and Lafayette Clinic. They also have the assistance of the Huron Valley Guild Guidance Clinic and the Loch Rio Director, Miss Esther Bain, an outstanding social worker with a wealth of experience working with adolescent girls.

The State Federation Convention

Theta Alumnae

Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae will meet today in the home of past president, Mrs. Edward F. Wallich, 6900 Oakhills Drive. Her co-hostesses are Mrs. Richard Miner and Mrs. Ted Teegarden. Luncheon will be served, followed by a short business meeting and hat auction.

The Birmingham Eccentric

Thursday, April 12, 1952

No individual can ever achieve even reasonable pleasure and happiness unless he unselfishly does something for others. No competitive business can survive (let alone make progress) unless it offers good merchandise or services, at acceptable prices. Indeed, it seems that a form of inextinguishable and insatiable mandate reigns over the affairs of mankind that demands brotherliness.

In Children's Shoes

BEAUTY IS MORE THAN SKIN DEEP

Beauty in shoes for babies and children lies in good design, good materials, good shoemaking, good fitting. If any one of these essentials is missing, shoes that may appear to be good may cause lifetime foot problems.

Hornung's has been serving children in this area for some fifty years. You are assured good shoes and the benefits of Hornung's carefully developed fitting techniques.

The shoes fit the child rather than the child fitting the shoes.
