

Crusading at Top Speed

The Michigan Cancer Foundation is conducting its traditional Crusade Against Cancer during the month of April and Birmingham women are working full steam ahead to bring its message to local area residents.

Part of the program is one of education, and with that in mind "coffeees" are being held all over town, during which guests are informed of the seven danger signals of cancer and shown a new film entitled "Time and Two Women". Early in May, the same film will be shown at one of the local movie houses.

Another part of the Crusade involves collecting white goods to be made into cancer pads, for which there is desperate need. Birmingham Girl Scouts have been enlisted to help with this project. When they appear at the door, they will not be asking for funds, just discarded sheets and pillow cases to help the cause. The Detroit Edison Co. on Merrill Street is contributing its lobby as a salvage center.

High School Pupils Invited to Visit College Campus

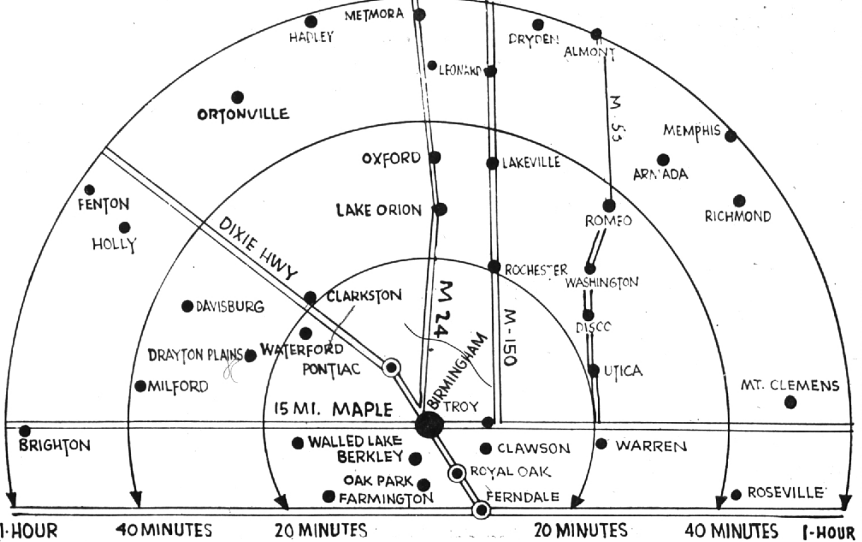

Senior high school students will be given an opportunity to attend college classes, tour dormitories and counsel with the administration, faculty and students during Michigan Christian Junior College's third annual High School Day, tomorrow from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. All students interested in obtaining guidance regarding their higher education are invited to visit the MCJC campus, 800 West Avon Road, Rochester.

Although three-fourths of the MCJC student body reside in campus dormitories, increasing numbers of graduates are commuting from Rochester's neighboring communities.

In view of this trend, college officials recognize a responsibility to the community and invite parents as well as students to investigate their program. Michigan Christian's High School Day is designed to provide a special opportunity for counselling with students considering a junior college, which has proven to be a successful answer for the beginning college experience of many.
