

'Primary' News

Mrs. William B. Clark, 540 S. Cranbrook Cross, Bloomfield Township, (on telephone) shares the news with Birmingham attorney George J. Fulkerson as his election as the Democratic nominee for Congress from the 18th District. Fulkerson's wife, Ruth, looks on. A special assistant attorney general for the State of Michigan, Fulkerson lives at 3160 Middlebury Lane, Bloomfield Township.

There's Nothing Like Work...

After one whole week of playing the role of a "lady of leisure," the only deduction that can be made right here, still in my right mind (I think), is that work — plain old vanilla hard physical work — is about the greatest gift ever given to mankind.

Suddenly, with the help of ever given offspring, things just didn't get messed up or dirty. The kitchen floor? It showed no stains of mud tracked in or of any jam or peanut butter spilled.

The bathrooms? The towels remained hanging "straight 'n nice," on the racks; the wash bowls plus the mirrors above sported no splash marks. Even the throw rugs needed not shaking once all week long.

Sweeping the carpets when no dust shows isn't challenging at all. And even though the tables were dusted daily, here too, the stimulation was lacking "cause not much dust existed. (Of course, running through rooms create unpleasant, the authorities tell us. It creates life 'n joy and excitement also.)

In the beginning it was delightful to arise leisurely and partake of a solitary breakfast with only the birds to hold a conversation with.

And it's an elegant feeling to read the morning paper as slowly as one wished. It was something to be able to pick up a book before 10 if you so desired. Or even to slip back to bed without a guilty sensation.

TO HAVE NO demands for "quick, Mom, we've gotta have a dozen sandwiches made right now" because we are going on a hike" released one from any non day chores.

By one, another novel could be picked up or another nap embraced or even a stroll.

By three? A complicated long "beauty routine" could be tackled but the joy was missing because there existed no tired lines to try to erase with creams and oils.

(Since no physical work had been undertaken the face and body weren't in need of attention in the first place; it was a depressing situation.)

OF COURSE, when the "rains came" in the middle of the week the windows, once sparkling clean, became splattered and the woods, all picked by Tuesday, began to grow again so these two jobs absorbed most of Thursday.

And, surprisingly, Friday a wonderful looking (smallish) pile of laundry had accumulated in the shade.

However, the amount of ironing made it not worthwhile to heat up the iron. And experts warn against pressing towels and washcloths, but one in a while it's all right if work is desired?

OPENING CLOSET doors and drawers became almost shocking, so neat and orderly had they suddenly become.

"Well, this condition won't last as soon as the brood is back," was a consoling thought.

As Saturday zoomed on the calendar with the visions of everyone returning Sunday, what should the mailman bring but a letter announcing that "Grandma wanted me for another week."

"Oh, my gosh! Must I live through another period of just being a lady all day long?" was the reaction.

Uncover Treasure

You never know what will turn up in the highway business. Not long ago, workmen uncovered the wheel of an old steamboat while dredging for a bridge to carry the $10 million east-west freeway across the Grand River in Grand Rapids. It belonged to a vessel that exploded and sank in the river 112 years ago.

SATURDAY NIGHT Mrs. Spencer R. Hershey of Half Moon Road had a bon voyage party for about fifty teen age friends of her son, Spencer Rogers, who is flying to Paris Aug. 21 where he will meet Dr. Lynn Hershey.

After motoring through France and Spain the two will return to this country by freighter in September.

Spencer's sister, Gayle, and several of her friends were dressed as French waitresses and served refreshments in a French Cafe. As Spain is also on the itinerary, the collegiate band dressed as Spaniards entertained with a comedy skit during intermission and the Coffin Twins, Will and Fred, who were perfect French Apaches, served as doorman to guard against unwitted guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mattern of Fairfax Road, accompanied by Mrs. Mattern's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Harless, recently spent a few days visiting the Walter Jeffreys of Dayton, Ohio.

'Adopted'
Pantelis Spyros, 7, of Vry-soul, Greece, has been "adopted" through Foster Parents' Plan by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. West, 225 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills. Pantelis, his mother, father and younger brother live in a two-room house and have an income of about $12 a month. The West's will contribute to the child's support through Foster Parents'.
