

Bouncing into Shape

Thoroughly enjoying the Birmingham school district summer Youth Fitness program while it lasts, this beaming lad tries his skill on the trampoline at Groves school. The same boy will be dragging his football out of the closet any day now, as the season for autumn athletics advances swiftly upon us.

Marching Bands Tune Up For First Football Games

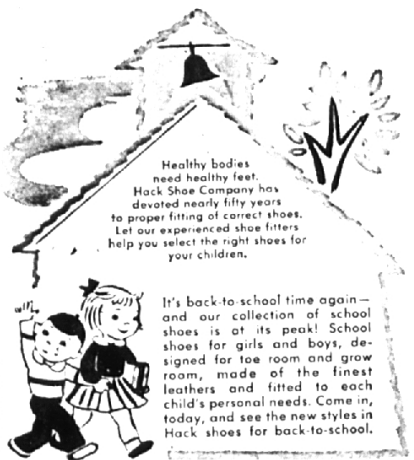

Both Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills band directors are hoping that their bands will be ready for "the first game." Rehearsals won't begin for either until the second day of school. The first appearance for both bands will be the Seaholm-Groves game Sept. 14 on the Seaholm field. The bands will try to work out a combined performance instead of giving separate ones, according to Arnold Barndt, coordinator of music for Birmingham Public Schools. BAND DIRECTOR at Seaholm is Robert Kutscher; at Groves, Burton Bronson, and at Bloomfield Hills, Wayne Tilton.

Replacing worn-out equipment are a Sousaphone, tympany, bass clarinet, bassoon, cello and string bass.

Estimated size of the Bloomfield Hills High School marching band is 50. The Seaholm band will be composed of about 75 marching units while the Groves band is expected to have about 80 members.
