

Junior Miss Likes Go-Togethers That Mix, Match Easily

America's Junior Miss for 1962, Jean Leslie Allen of Providence, Rhode Island, has chosen her basic back-to-school wardrobe. It's built around go-togethers that mix and match with ease, to allow complete versatility throughout a busy year.

Her basic school wardrobe totaled just 26 separate styles, but in careful combination added up to dozens and dozens of "Looks Unlimited" variations. Her basic wardrobe consisted of:

Three plaid skirts and three solid skirts, in slim and pleated variations; two blouses; two shirts; three pairs of pants, including one pair of Bermuda walkers; three slipover sweaters plus two cardigans and two novelties.

ONE BLAZER jacket; four dresses and one wardrobe suit.

By applying the "Wardrobe Magic" principle of color coordination, Jean will have a different outfit almost every time she goes out. The magic lies in choosing well-designed styles that can be worn in an almost unlimited number of combinations.

Pleats and Plaids Styled for Fun, Wardrobe Success

High-flying pleats and plaids can be a fine basis around which a complete wardrobe for fall can be built, in colors that can be coordinated a dozen different ways.

Bold pleated skirts in handsome oversize plaids are a favorite choice for casual daytime wear. Bulky sweaters in accent or pick-up colors, double as casual jackets when worn over a crisp cotton blouse.

For playtime fun, there are sleek tapered pants in clan plaid colorings. New to this year's collection is the dewy casual coat with a removable and reversible hood. This coat is fine for general casual daytime wear as well.

All these fashions are lively additions to any girl's school wardrobe. They're styled for fun, with a built-in measure of fashion success.

Conference Planned For Teachers, Staff Of B'ham District

A three-day pre-school conference for the professional staff of the Birmingham Public Schools will be held at 9 a.m. on Aug. 31. The program will include an orientation day on Monday for teachers new to the system, followed by a two-day conference for all teachers on Sept. 1 and 2.

The orientation day will include a meeting of teachers at their own schools with the principal and assistant principals and a general session in the afternoon. A luncheon for the school district will follow.

The pre-school conference will include a general faculty meeting at which time Dr. Otto M. Dickey, superintendent, will speak. Most of the three days will be spent by the teachers in their rooms, preparing instruction materials and organizing their rooms for the new school year. A series of department-wide department meetings in the specialized curriculum areas will be held.

A New Season Starts

A SURE SIGN of the end of summer recreation athletics and the return to inter-scholastic sports is the storing of sports gear in the recreation department's storeroom. (From left) Dwane Dunham, 3670 Big Beaver, Birmingham, hands several tennis rackets to Don Martin, recreation department director, as the stock shelves begin to fill up for another winter.

Turn Out Mountains Of Sewing Products

When 4-H Club girls turn out more than three million pieces of sewing annually, it's sure a sign that they like to sew.

A recent survey made by the Cooperative Extension Service shows that girls enrolled in a 4-H clothing program completed more than 1 1/2 million dresses, coats, suits and miscellaneous attire, and about the same amount of household articles such as draperies, pillows, spreads, covers and the like.

Before the girls can make these things, however, they must learn how to use a sewing machine. And they do. The local volunteer 4-H Club leader does the "showing how."

Where does the local clothing leader get the up-to-date know-how she passes on to her young counterparts? At sewing centers where she takes a 4-H course called "Getting the Most Out of Your Sewing Machine."

Clean-minded mothers are meeting every day at 327 Hamilton

They come in with big arm-loads of snow suits and parkas, jackets, slacks, sweaters and skirts and toss them into our Poly Clean machines. Inside of an hour they're ready to send their kids back to school in thoroughly dry cleaned and deodorized outfits.

Mothers meet here for several reasons. First, because they're able to have piles of clothes dry cleaned at the rate of only a quarter per pound. Two dollars for a full eight pound load.

Second, because they find the clothes come out cleaner than usual. (Each machine has its own filtering system, so you're not cleaning in someone else's solution.)

And third, there's the convenience of it. We're close to all the stores. So you can shop—spend the money you save here on something else—while your clothes are in the works. One hour later it's done. You're home and the kids are ready for school. Easy?
