

This Boy-Girl Romance Started at Seaholm

MR. AND MRS. ELLIOTT M. ESTES

MRS. EDWARD WALLACE ESTES

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS J. BENNETT

A romance that started when both principals were freshmen at Seaholm High School was culminated Saturday when Karen Ellen Bennett walked up the aisle of Christ Church Cranbrook to become the bride of Edward Wallace Estes.

Over three-hundred-and-eighty guests attended the 3 o'clock ceremony at which the Rev. Robert P. Patterson officiated. A reception followed at Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Bennett of Arlington Road and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elliott M. Estes of Waddington Road. Both young people have lived in Birmingham most of their lives.

The bridal gown, an original by Priscilla of Boston, was of lustrous white satin fashioned along princess lines and accented by three-quarter-length sleeves. The bell skirt had an overlay of sheerest organza applied by rosebuds of matching satin, the same satin forming a deep band around the hem of the gown.

A tiny cap contrived of satin and silk organza secured the short veil of French illusion, and the bridal bouquet combined gardenias with stephanotis and ivy. A single strand of pearls and wrist-length white gloves completed the outfit.

Mrs. John E. Shannon of Omaha, Neb., was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids included Mrs. Thomas P. Estes of Bay Village, Ohio, sister of the bridegroom; Dale Logan of Tampa, Fla., Jane McKinley and Mrs. Peter Palmer, both of Birmingham.

They were all dressed identically in gold satin bell skirt dresses and wore matching tulle pill boxes. Their flowers were cascade arrangements of greens and goldtone roses.

Thomas P. Estes was his brother's best man, and seating the guests was another brother, William, of Birmingham. Warren S. Sumner III and Peter Green, of Birmingham; Arthur Brandstatter, Jr., of East Lansing, and Jerry Peters and John E. Eisenhower, also of East Lansing, completed the group.

Mrs. Bennett greeted her guests at the reception in a gown of seafoam green lace with matching accessories. Her flowers were cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Estes chose an outfit of mocha brocade, and she, too, wore cymbidium orchids.

When the newlyweds left on a wedding trip to New York City, the bride wore a hunter green costume suit with a multi-color feather pill box and black accessories. They will make their home in Tucson, Ariz.

Choice of residence was determined by the fact that the bridegroom is attending the University of Arizona, where he will be a senior this fall. His fraternity is Sigma Chi. The new Mrs. Estes is an alum of Stephens College in Columbia, Mo.

Among out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Ross and Patricia Ross of Ridgewood, N. J.; Ruth Nyetrom of Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Cordelia Adkins of Gainesville, Fla.; Francesca Farr of Carmel, Calif.; Lattitia Herbel of Wilmette, Ill.; Dale Logan of Tampa, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. William Cratin of Clarendon Hills, Ill.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Barton of Indianapolis; Mrs. Alice Palmer of Elkhart, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brown of Orlando, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer R. Pettengil of Ridgewood, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Ross E. Thompson of Chicago.
