At the close of the junior candy sale, held from Nov. 21-30, the total sum gained from the door-to-door campaign was $10,423.50. Helping to increase the class's treasury, the money will be used to partly defray senior expenses next year. Homeroom members who sold the most candy were A-114, Mrs. Gove with $868, B-100, Mrs. Kinnison with $822, and Mrs. Ransom with $789.

Members of Seaholm's student congress social committee, headed by Craig Johnson, are working enthusiastically to present the annual Christmas dance as a success. Other committee chairmen involved are Kathi Thompson, refreshments; Patti Wyatt, chaperones; Terry Zimmer, programs and tickets; Bob Brown, decorations; Dave Sanders, publicity; and Betty Schwab, clean-up.

"Chalet Noel" will be a unique semi-formal program dance in the Maple Room with music by the Williams. Admission is free with an activity ticket. The date is Saturday, Dec. 15, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Plans are now underway for the 1963 J-Hop sponsored by the junior class. Presented in honor of the seniors, it is the formal dance of the year given in the spring. Elected by her classmates as J-Hop chairman was Sue Thaler. Active in various school projects, she is full of original ideas for the dance and wants "united support from the entire class." Other subcommittees will be appointed in the near future.

An interview was held on Nov. 29 with 34 students interested in obtaining jobs for the Christmas holidays. Applications were open to anyone wishing a job. Joan Marks, a retailing instructor in charge of the 700-up commercial program at Seaholm, began training students on Dec. 3. They will receive 10 hours of pre-employment customer training preparatory for Christmas jobs.

Working positions will be found for those students who demonstrate the necessary capabilities with the minimum of training and qualifications, good grooming and good manners. In previous years, Mrs. Marks has placed students in the Madway Heights school district, Saturday, S. S. Kresge Co. in Birmingham.

Superior work in English has paid off for seniors Edward Chappel and Martin Dick. Those students were awarded the National Council of Teachers of English certificate. Ed received first place while Martin was named runner-up. This award is given to outstanding English students all over the nation. The awards recommend college scholarships, with about 50 per cent of all recommended students accepted by the college of their choice with financial aid.

NCTE started its work six years ago and is highly regarded by all colleges. Each high school can enter one person for every 100 students enrolled. Ed and Martin had to submit three compositions and were required to take a composition test and a literary awareness test. Letters of recommendation from two teachers were also mandatory.

At the annual meeting of the Michigan Association of secondary schools, held in Lansing Nov. 28-30, Mr. Ross A. Wagner, Seaholm High School principal, was elected to membership in the Michigan high school athletic association. During a two-year term he will represent class A and B southeastern schools. Duties of the representative council are the general control of interscholastic athletic policies, making rules of eligibility of players, making conduct regulations for contests, disciplining member schools, contest officials and athletes for violation of rules, and providing a hearing of appeals from decisions of the state director.

While attending the 67th annual Congress of American Industry in New York on Dec. 5-7, Mr. Wagner was guest speaker of Victoria. This meeting is for the National Association of Manufacturers and is attended by representatives from business, industry and education.

Cranbrook Schools Host Party for Handicapped

Santa Claus and the members of the Kingswood-Cranbrook Schools' student cabinet will host their annual Christmas party for 33 handicapped children of the Madison Heights school district, Saturday, from 2 to 4 p.m., in the Kingswood School auditorium.

Santa (Cranbrook junior Tom Barlow) will have his large sack filled to capacity with dolls dressed by Kingswood students and model cars built by boys from Cranbrook. Color slides of the J. L. Hudson Thanksgiving Day parade, Christmas carol singing and refreshments round out the afternoon.

The student cabinet is composed of six girls and six boys from Kingswood and Cranbrook schools. Co-chairmen for this year are Judy Sanden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Kenneth Sanden, of 1224 Sandringway Way, Birmingham, and Rick Stolorow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stolorow, of Pontiac.

Other cabinet committee members include Kingswood students: Sheila Devlin, of Canada; Mary Sprague, of Port Huron; Pat Hewlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hewlett, 951 Twin Oaks Lane, Birmingham; Danute Miskins, of Detroit; and Diana Gornick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Gornick, 290 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills.

From Cranbrook: Richard Goodman, of St. Clair; L. B. McKelvey, of Youngstown, O.; Stephen O'Grady, son of Rev. and Mrs. Gerald B. O'Grady, 415 Church Road, Bloomfield Hills; Richard Marr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Marr, 455 Fairfax, Birmingham; and Charles Brethen, III, of Grosse Ile, Nancy Kusrowski and Walter Young are the faculty advisors to the student cabinet.

B'field Youth Named to Yale Dean's List

A Bloomfield Hills youth is among 19 Yale University students from Michigan named to the Dean's List for outstanding academic achievement during the last term.

George Flying Squibb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Squibb, 596 Rudgate Road. He is a graduate of Cranbrook School and is majoring in mechanical engineering. He also is a member of Tau Beta Pi and is active in athletics in Silliman College, one of Yale's undergraduate residential colleges.

B'field Hills Barons

Bloomfield's annual Christmas concert will be presented on Dec. 19 and 20 in the new Little Theater at 8:20 p.m. One of this year's features is a tour of Christmas in different countries by way of a correlation of the country's art and music.

Featured at the concert will be soloists Lynda Weston, Dennis Eason, along with the Hills, the newly organized soprano singers, and the junior-senior mixed ensemble.

Accompanists will be Sharon Synder, Susan Laake, Bob Aten, Pam Ruppel, Don Bara, Cindy Skalsky, Jacquelyn Harrod, and Pete Lambeck.

Tickets may be purchased from the BHHS choir students. Advanced reservations are requested and may be made by phoning MI 7-0165. The proceeds will go toward the purchase of a new organ.

Mr. Irvin Sutherland and his psychology classes traveled to Northville State Hospital on Dec. 4. They toured the hospital with auxiliary volunteers in order to better understand the workings of a mental institution. Miss Larson accompanied the group.

Marian High

The senior class held its third meeting of the year on Nov. 29 to make plans for a semi-formal dance this month, Saturday, Dec. 29. The date was decided upon at the date and the dance will be held in the school cafeteria and lounge area. Five committees are now at work planning the details of the dance.

Other business at hand included congratulations from Mother Mary Aguin to all the seniors who attended the closed retreat at St. Mary's Retreat house in Oxford, Mich., last week. Several girls volunteered to relate some of their opinions and very favorable reactions to the two-day retreat conducted by Rev. Raymond Ellis, who is connected with the Detroit chancery.

More news from the drama department at Marian as the Drama club held another meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 4. Plans are underway for a three-day speech and drama festival to be held Feb. 17, 18 and 19, according to Miss Nancy Easter, drama department head. Eliminations for the interpretive reading portion of the program will be held on several days prior to the festival and will be conducted by Sister Hermene. Besides selected interpretive readings, the drama club will present three plays on consecutive evenings. The plays include: "The Madwoman of Chailiot," "The Ugly Duckling," and "The Summoners of Sarriel."

The second hour drama class is preparing for the filming of an old-time melodrama. The acting company has been nicknamed "Twenty-Two Star Productions," and has already begun work on the casting, filming, backstage work, and further development of the play. Stocks in "Twenty-Two Star Productions" will be sold in the classroom to members of the drama class only, who will benefit from the profits. The entire school will be entitled to see the film at various times in the near future.

A second-run production of "Macbeth" was shown to all those interested after school last Monday. The film tied in with the studies of the junior and senior English classes and was quite a benefit to those who had not already taken the text on the play.

The Vigil of the Immaculate Conception was marked by a High Mass sung by the student body on Friday, Dec. 7. The seniors, in their caps and gowns, walked in procession to the singing of "O, Sanctissima." Seniors and the choral sang "Tota Pulchra Es" at the Offertory of the Mass, and after Mass, "Praise Be To Thee, O Mary."

During the novena preceding the feast day, Rev. Maurice Geary, Marian's chaplain, made a brief meditation over the P.A. system on Our Lady's virtues daily. This was followed by a prayer and the blessing of the Advent Wreath, a religious symbol used at the Christmas season.

As the bowling season progresses, Karen Maybee remains at the top with an individual high score of 189. The team high series is held by Team 17 at 909 pins. Patricia Monroe leads the others with the highest individual series at 146 and the highest season average of 141. Only a few more weeks of league playing, and the high teams will contend for the various trophies to be awarded by the physical education department.

Academy of the Sacred Heart

By PATRICIA SHANNON

Twice a year the Academy participates in a regional essay contest shared by the seven other Sacred Heart convents of the vicariate. During the past week, three essays from each class were chosen to represent Bloomfield Hills. The results of the contest will be announced at a later date.

On Friday, Nov. 30, Mr. Kranz of the Peace Corps gave an interesting program of the functions of that organization and evoked much enthusiasm from the school.

The following Friday, Dec. 7, the annual Lily procession will be held in the chapel. Many parents and friends attended this traditional religious ceremony.

Meanwhile, travel, Christmas parties and television hold the attention of the senior class. On the weekend of Nov. 30, Elizabeth Moore flew to California to see the San Francisco College for Women. Kate Mahony is planning to spend her college weekend at Duchesne Residence School in New York city on Dec. 14.

All the seniors are preparing for dinner dance at the Detroit Golf Club on Dec. 29. This Christmas party is the combined effort of Ann McGill, Bobby Jones, Carol Vieson, Cathi Coyio, Gayle Waters, Anne Schroeter and Elizabeth Moore.

Five girls will defend the school on the Quiz 'Em show this coming Saturday, Dec. 15. Betty Jones, Kate Mahony, Patricia Shannon, Tena Stein and Carol Vieson, on behalf of the entire school, invite all to view this program.

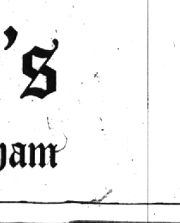

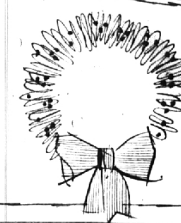

The sophomore class and the whole school have lost one of their favorite girls, Mary Felrath. Her family has moved to Ann Arbor and she is now attending school there.

Outside of a zoo, the only continent on which a tiger is likely to turn up is Asia. All tigers in the wild state dwell in Asia or in the islands off Asia. Some giants of the tribe prowled around Manchuria and Western China and other members of the family are at home in India, Pakistan and Iran. Japan has a tiger population and so do the islands of Sumatra and Java. Australia, Switzerland, Pavia, Illinois, and any and all other locales in Europe, Africa and North and South America are apparently quite safe.
