Michigan beverage laws being what they are, this was a relatively quiet New Year's even at clubs around town.

Forest Lake country club proved the elasticity of their calendar by moving their celebration up one night. Members greeted the new year on Saturday and all agreed they had never felt so rested as on this particular January second.

The DAC initiated what members are hoping will become a tradition of long standing on New Year's day. There was a family reception in the afternoon then tea dancing and a buffet (this tea dance idea will receive a big play in the coming year, we are especially in private homes on Saturday and Sunday afternoon—people just can't seem to get enough of the twist!). Among the crowds at the DAC were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perring, Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Murray, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cunningham and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lowe.

Make It Four

Mr. and Mrs. Jerrold Frost, Jr. announce the birth of Timothy Workman on Dec. 4. Eagerly applying for jobs as baby helpers are his three brothers, Jay, Todd and Chris.

Should Audit?

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Peterson entertained with cocktails and supper New Year's even at their home on Burning Tree Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Toppfer were host for 200 at an open house at their home in Bloomfield Hills last Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Damman had a party for 500 of their friends New Years eve.

Big Year

John W. Clark has been appointed province four alumni officer of Kappa Delta and will supervise activities in Michigan and Ohio in the coming year.

Snow Bowl

Doc sleds could have been used to advantage up in Gaylord over this past New Year's week. Birmingham and Bloomfield residents are mushed through blinding snow blizzards to enjoy the holiday at the Osage ski club. Station wagons crowded with kids and equipment buzzed along the new freeway to the north country from Tuesday on.

And it's the equipment that's creating the problem with skiers. Everything is becoming bulkier—large fur hats, puffy long quilted parkas, long underwear that's even MORE thermal, fluffy mohair sweaters, leather knickers and various small clothes. If this keeps up, we'll have to throw away the mattresses and pack our stuff in mattress covers!

Goggles were a necessity on the slopes because of the constant snowfall and everyone looked ready for a quick trip to outer space if they needed wear their Buck Rogers rocket belts.

Ms. Phil Moon almost qualified for the latter. She wears five pounds of batteries in a neat leather case attached to her belt. Hidden wires lead down to her electric socks and she skis all day in comfort.

Mrs. Henry Woolfenden flew up for one day of skiing in the plane of her Bloomfield neighbors, the Davies. They cut short their afternoon at the skies darkened and the snowfall grew even more dense. They were worried about their bartmams and pack our stuff in Grayling where the food (served
