

Postman's Prolonged Absence Stimulates Hike in the Sun

By LOUISE KRAEMER
MI 6-9716

There are no hearts as big as those in the Beverly! Recently the people from Kirkshire to Dublin, east and west, Southfield, missed their cheerful, friendly postman of several years: John MacGregor, married, with five children, has been a long-time resident of Birmingham.

On inquiry they found he had been, and still is, in the hospital, so the ladies canvassed his contribution to a sizable fund which has been turned over to Mr. Hack at the Birmingham Post Office.

He will turn it over to Mrs. MacGregor and her family so John will not be worried and can concentrate on getting well and know his many friends are thinking of him.

MR. AND MRS. L. T. Mathews of Kinross, with the help of their five daughters, Mary Ann, Janet, Judy, Gail and Tammy Louise, conceived and built a float for the Greenfield - Beverly parade that won first prize, a gold trophy, tickets to the Northland Playhouse and tickets to the Bloomfield Theatre in Birmingham.

They made the float in two-and-a-half days. The girls, using eight boxes of facial tissue, made flowers which they have since given to friends to decorate for a forthcoming wedding. Crepe paper and all other decorations were fastened to a frame and mounted on the car. The girls and a cousin, Gary Heber of Berndale, rode on the float called "Let Freedom Ring".

Last year they won second prize with an entry called "Water Wonderland." Judy, twins, Janet and Lydia Simmers, in long gowns, apparently awakened by Paul Revere, Old North Church were in the foreground and a village in the background, which

"PAUL REVERE'S ride" took second place and was assembled by the Fleck, Simmers and Becker families. With grass from Acacia Park and a horse from an Up-Town Toy store, they created an impressive scene with Peter Becker as Paul Revere, Dick Simmers and Robert Fleck as Minute Men and two little girls, Connie Becker and Lydia Simmers, in long gowns, apparently awakened by Paul Revere, Old North Church were in the foreground and a village in the background, which

ROSE KELLEHER of Kinross, a former principal of one of the Detroit schools, sailed on the Queen Mary recently for Europe. She will visit Lourdes, Paris and Rome, where she will have a private audience with the Pope. Scoutmaster Beauchamp and Bob Rentz, with fifteen boys from Greenfield Boy Scout Troop 1010, are spending this week at the D. Bar A. Scout Ranch in Metamora. They have the Eagles Nest campsite and have planned a program of horseback riding, rifle drill and other activities.

This group has spent 22 days camping in the past year, at least two or three nights a month, more than any other troop in the Detroit Area. They have recently returned from a canoe trip on the Rifle River, where one of their members, Dave Roup, contacted poison ivy, so will not go with the boys this time. The boys who did go are Robert Brayben, Rick Speir, Bruce Chapman, Donald Porter, Mark Hostetter, Dick Simmers, Lee Rentz, Robert Fleck, Dennis Dalbee, Billy Mitchell, Ronald Western, Brad Hubbard, Mark Henning and Charles Rau.

WEST BEVERLY Hills Branch, WNFCA, will meet Thursday, July 26, at the home of Mrs. James Moorcroft, 32915 Norchester.
