By being an AAUW Woman Puppeteer, You can pursue the drama in a smaiish way my dear. For higher histrionics there's some gamey little groups. St. Dunstan's Guild of Bloomfield and the Village Players troupes.

There's ingentes and heavies and there's characters galore. Cast parties at St. Dunstan's and the Player's really roar. Sing out the chorus, oh sing it clear and loud. For every lonely citizen there is a waiting crowd.

Yes, Bloomingham is organized, a group for every view. There is no need for loneliness, new friends are waiting you. The Junior League of Birmingham are civic-minded dears. You get to be a junior now for almost twenty years. The League of Women Voters you must not antagonize. They look at all the candidates with independent eyes. Remember lack a month or three when con-con was in view. They made impartial statements on what Romney was to do. In matters quite aesthetic there are groups for pros and dubs: The Camera, Women Painters, Terra Cotta Sculpture Club. The Bloomfield Art Association's making quite a hit. They built a brand new gallery above a sewage pit. By joining up with BAA you'll really get a start.

In understanding all the mysteries of Modern Art. Now how about activities for physical fatigue? We recommend quite highly first the Ladies Bowling League. The Golf League, Ski, and Tennis Clubs and then there's "Pounds-a-Weigh"

In Bloomingham a girl can lose a great deal every day. (Of) The gentle art of dancing you can really get your fill At "Coterie", a dancing club, or Birmingham Quadrille. In matters terpsichorean and groups aesthetical You must include the talents of the Birmingham Musicals. It really is astounding, if for culture you will yearn. In Bloomingham you'll find that we've got culture we can burn!

Now let us turn our thoughts to groups more mercantile in range. To Rotary and Optimists, The Birmingham Exchange. And while we're talking to the men we'd better make some plans.

To mention the SOR-optimists and also RO-TRY ANNS. Kiwanis and the Chamber and the Lions Club of course if you keep calling off the names your vocal chords grow hoarse.

It really is a truth that now is very widely known. In Bloomingham a citizen can hardly be alone. No matter what your ancestors and if your blood is blue, There'll always be a club or group especially for you. Just waiting for your application, wanting you to see. How joining up with them insures your popularity. At Seaholm every boy and girl need never be alone. You'll find a jillion reasons to keep you on the phone. Complacency for instance is a club that makes it clear. You'll see a play, a symphony, a concert once a year. Or if you like to ski, of course you do that in a club. You'll never have to ski alone—alho you are a club. They even have a Pep Club so our school will always cheer. En masse for every victory, for heroes we hold dear.

Song of Detroit

I figured I'd always live in that little country town . . . A small-time engineer in the town where I was born. A country boy with a head for math . . . I didn't really want to come here. But this I would like to explain to you Now I have quite another view. All my life I've read about this mass production miracle. And up and down America I've watched the poets frown Oh Henry and his Lizzie and in phrases quite satirical They'll tell you that Detroit is just a mass production town.

Just Press a lever and throw a switch, feed that moving line Well, that's a picture of Detroit that's really assinine. Call it mass production and declare it with impunity. It all depends on what's produced and what you call a mass. The fascinating things created in this great community. Are values that all other cities never will surpass. Let me tell you something . . . newcomer's made this town. (RECITATIVE)

And what they brought here sixty years ago Is alive and pulsing wherever Detroiters meet . . . Men bristling with fresh methods, smart ideas, and new ways.

(SINGS)
Here is the thing that I'm telling you
DETROIT is a town that will welcome the new
While back in the twenties they hit on a great idea . . .
Something that was to stimulate the world—
(SINGS)
And back in the twenties they hit on a plan
Bring out new models . . . each year if you can
(RECITATIVE)
You get that kind of thing going and people
Catch the fever, builders and buyers, designers
And Drivers, in Detroit a fellow's just gotta
Come up with something that's new.

(SINGS)
You might be an engineer or advertising man
But always you are thinking of a new home and different plan.
Detroit is a town where a lot of men rise
To the top of the heap with a light in their eyes
Detroit is a place where a kid can be king
With a fresh new way to make any old thing.
In Detroit you find men who salute the new!
Where a model change is hullabaloo (shout it)
Where millions of people will change each year
Where "A fresh new start" is the song that you hear.
Yes, this is a city that constantly hums,
So this is a place where the newcomer comes!
There's more to this town than just making a thing
Than production of tools and of eyes.
Yes, This is a town where the artists bring
Joy to your ears and beauty to your eyes.

(RECITATIVE)
Saarinen, father and son . . . Miles . . .
Yamasaki . . . Marshall Fredericks . . .
Sarkis . . . Searshy . . . Copin . . . Thom . . .
Look at that water front way out here . . .
Exciting new buildings . . . sculpture wherever you look . . .
One of the world's great orchestras here . . .
A theatre of great renown . . .
An exciting new university in our midst . . .
A place where creative people live and love to work.
There's a lot of beauty in this town.

(SINGS)
Detroit is a place where you can be Proud of your new community
It's a town where a man can see
On every hand opportunity.
Yes, Detroit is a town with the welcome signs that are planted all over the place
For anything new or newcomers who can help win a competitive race
Each fresh new thought has a chance to be bought in a town that's on the move
A community of opportunity which any fool can prove.
I love its speed, it's hustling pace
I love the look in Detroit's eyes
And I love the city's changing face
And its spirit that never dies.
I sing of my city in words not adroit,
But here's what I mean . . . I love
De . . . troit!
