

Sunrise and sunset present colorful spectacles that awaken the admiration and wonder of those who behold this celestial phenomenon—yet so often most people fail to gain inner benefit from such wondrous "pinnacles." Indeed, there is so much to be gained from observation of all things that come into being, beyond mankind's doing, that deserve one's boundless admiration!

'Walk Lifers' Who Salk Larvae's 'Extra Mile' Are Precious

"Love some one . . . in God's name love some one—for this is the bread of the inner life, without which a part of you will starve and die. And, though you think you must be stern, even hard, in your daily life or daily affairs . . . make for yourself at least some little corner in this great world where you may unobtrusively be kind!"

I read the above inspired paragraph a good many years ago, when in my teens; I never forgot it. I often think of it when I observe some individual, or group of people, enlisted in an unselfish program that results in good coming to others.

Especially is this true when little children, impoverished, or uneducated-by-parents, are concerned; or where children of good, but poor parents, are involved—and often when deserving but unfortunate adults are given needed assistance.

AMONG THE MANY organizations that are typical of the Good Samaritan policies among these camps is Camp Oakland, originally organized by a small group of Oakland County men some years ago.

Now it has developed into the ownership of several hundred acres of land, a lake, several structures to house up to 500 boys and girls in summer camps, and also two groups of Oakland County juvenile wards, each in their own building. These latter groups are under the control of Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, who cooperates with the Camp in a pilot experiment.

ACTUALLY, FROM A financial standpoint, Camp Oakland has ownership of over $600,000 worth of property, and its overall program is supported by hundreds of individuals, plus a good many county service clubs, composed of both men and women.

To be sure, there are many groups that "walk the extra mile" in their concern for human beings less fortunate than most of us and, too, there are countless millions of average men and women who likewise give of some of their time. (See THIS & THAT, 4-A)

The seminar will be the first held in the Southfield school district in the evening.

Clan Scores Birdie-Six At 2nd Tee

by George R. Averill

Billings and cooing on a golf course? Don't be shocked. The participants were all lady links fans who teeked Friday tees at a new home near the second hole at Oakland Hills Country Club.

The occupants were a mother and her five, newly hatched babies who were nesting on the ground near the ladies tee.

To insure a bird's-eye view, Greenskeeper Howard Jones erected a wire fence around the sparrow's quarters. Not only nearby given to fuss and feathers, he couldn't resist putting up a little sign.

It read, "Home, Sweet Home." Mrs. Sparrow graciously accepted the admiring plaudits of all the bird watchers as she held open house.

The golfers were so bemused that it was readily reported that no one scored an eagle all day.

THE PROPOSITION for an additional tax of three-tenths of a mill for the establishment of a library fund. The levy will be used exclusively to provide library service for the residents of Lathrup Village.

THE CHARTER must also be amended to provide for the formation of a library committee.

Although the original petition, signed by 300 City residents, did not state that the three-tenths of a mill tax rate was additional, Mrs. William O'Brien, who circulated the petition, explained that signers were informed of this.

Three Sentenced; One Pleads Guilty In Circuit Court

Thomas G. White, 24 of Hamilton, Ont., was sentenced to three to five years in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson and Robert E. Wilson, 22 of Detroit, was sentenced to one to five years Tuesday.

Specifically, White and Wilson were charged with the burglary of Dennis Martin's home, 2291 Fairview, Birmingham, last month.

Glenn Anderson, alias George Graham, was sentenced to one to four years Friday for larceny from a building.

Five Receive Commission Appointments

by Kay Smith

LATHRUP—A potential puzzle "Whether the Lathrup municipal building?" was tossed around at Monday's council meeting and eventually landed in the laps of five newly created commission of five residents.

The commission consists of Mrs. Norman H. Iverson, David P. Anderson, David N. Reed, Elmer S. Craig and Fred Thompson.

One of the many questions at issue is whether a building to house city offices outside the city limits would give rise to too many problems.

EVERETT HAYES, city attorney, pointed out that the police would not have jurisdiction over the grounds and buildings.

On the other hand, the "in-the-city" question boils down to "where can a municipal building be put?"

These are some of the problems which will face the new Municipal Building Advisory committee. Final action was deferred on the non-profit articles of incorporation pending further study.

CITY ADMINISTRATOR Gerald D. Stone was also instructed to contact an architect to give the City preliminary cost figures. Each member of the commission will be requested to give the council an itemized list of questions and objectives for study.

Rental figures over a long period of time will also be studied.

Thomas Reed, 28684 Blackstone, asked if future councils would be obligated, under the Public Act's statute, to any long term lease the present council might enter into. Hayes said future councils would be so obligated.

2 Residents Appointed to Council Posts

BIRMINGHAM FARMS—The council formally appointed two new councilmen to fill vacancies and agreed to request a contract with the Evergreen Sewage disposal system, Monday night.

Walter Gerick, former village assessor, and Clayton H. Lemon will replace Donald Morse and Raymond Schiener, both of whom recently resigned.

Lemon, a resident of Bingham Farms for 23 years at 23630 W. 13 Mile Road, will complete the two-year term of Schiener, elected in March. Gerick will finish out Morse's unexpired one-year term.

The resolution requesting Oakland county DPW authorities to prepare a contract for Bingham constituted another formal step toward connection with the Evergreen system.

Private industry in the Detroit area alone spent a minimum of $275 million for applied research and development in 1961.

Boxes of petitions are carried up the steps of Lansing's capitol building by Mitt Romney, Mrs. George Romney and Romney. Nearly 70,000 signatures, from all of Michigan's 83 counties, were collected by Romney—a record total for a gubernatorial candidate, according to Robert M. Montgomery, state director of elections.

County Airport, Health Get Additional Study

The next move on Oakland county's proposed airport site was left to the aviation committee Monday night by the board of supervisors. The United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit will conduct a $15,000 survey to determine health and medical care needs.

The board asked for the county aviation committee's recommendations on use of the airport site following word that the Federal Aviation Agency has rejected a proposed new county jet airport.

At Monday night's meeting, Orion Township Supervisor John Lessiter suggested an alternate use for the Pontiac and Orion Township site of the county's proposed jet terminal.

LESSITER offered a resolution calling for abandoning the jet port in favor of a community college on the property.

However, Springfield Township Supervisor John Carey, acting chairman of the aviation committee, said no action would be taken on Lessiter's resolution until the county receives official notification of the FAA's rejection.

Word of the rejection came last week from Congressman William Bloomfield (R-Oakland County), who said he had been notified by an FAA assistant administrator that the proposed jet port was "unacceptable."

THE HEALTH survey was authorized at the request of Ways and Means Chairman David Levinson, supervisor from Birmingham. The $15,000 allocation for the study will cover the cost of consultants in the fields of welfare, public health, medical engineering, and mental health.

B'ham Educators Spend Annual Holiday Working

Summer "vacation" for 19 Birmingham teachers will be spent in the revision and development of new curriculum guides.

All the work is being done to implement recommendations made by either the citizens or professional curriculum committees, according to Daniel A. Nesbitt, deputy superintendent in charge of instruction.

The teachers are currently working to develop materials in elementary science, social studies, language arts and arithmetic. The secondary teachers are working in science, speech and art. One of the educators is analyzing standardized test data which will help point the way to other further curriculum improvements.

RICHARD SUMNER, sixth grade teacher at Quanton, is a typical member of the group working during the summer months. He is working in the science field, along with four other teachers, under the direction of Dr. William Forbes, science consultant. Their task is to revise, update and expand the current science curriculum from the kindergarten thru the 12th grade.

"Although textbooks form an important part of the science program," said Sumner, "we find that many other sources of information are necessary to serve the wide range of interests and abilities of students in our classrooms and to keep our courses updated."

In science, according to Sumner, the key to understanding is problem solving. To do this adequately, teacher and students need to be aware of a wide range of experiments, demonstrations and sources of information to gather necessary data to solve problems.

"Having the time, freedom from distraction and many materials at our finger tips enables us to use our best judgment as to what science concepts can best be introduced, at what grade level and what activities and information sources are available to the busy classroom teacher," said Sumner.

"We list many activities, textbooks, supplementary or library books, audio-visual aids, free materials available from industry, and suggested homework activities. These together with the pupils and teachers own creativity and resourcefulness helps to insure a breadth and depth of learning that would not be possible if only a single source were used."

THE PIERCE School library will be open Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m. until noon and on Thursdays from 10:00 a.m. until noon and on Thursdays from 10:00 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Hours at Torry School library will be from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays. Midvale hours are 12:30 to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Closing dates vary and may be checked at each school library.

Incinerator Sparks Fire on House Roof

LATHRUP—A spark from an incinerator was believed to have started a fire at the J. C. Jolly home, 27640 E. California St., Thursday morning, according to the Southfield Fire Department.

Two fire trucks rushed to the home and halted the blaze before it could spread from the roof to the rest of the two-story house.

According to the fire department, the estimated damage was between $500 and $1,000.

The University of Michigan admitted its first class of seven students in 1817.
