

Accent Continues on Romance

To be sure, every generation presents its variety of problems to human beings. And why not? In the environment of challenge do new individuals emerge into "fuller stature." Against the rigors of wind and storm does not Nature's Law cause the trees to go deeper, its timber to be stronger? So with people. Every day's demands also can bring needed strength to meet them.

Brides Keep Faith With June

Barry-Mohler

Jane Kadcliffe Mohler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orren Mohler of Southfield Road, Birmingham, walked up the aisle of the First Presbyterian Church the evening of June 23 to become the bride of Jeffrey Wessels Barry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Barry of Grosse Pointe. The Rev. W. Glen Harris officiated.

The bride wore a classically styled gown of blossom white mousseline de soie over tulle, the bodice fashioned of Alençon lace. Her bouffant veil was of silk illusion and she carried Annonis lilies and ivory.

Mrs. William George LeLana of Hartford, Conn., was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids included Mrs. David George Cook, Mrs. Harry Buck and Mrs. Barry, sister of the bridegroom. They were all dressed in candlelight beige gowns styled with boleros of Alençon lace and short, bell-bottomed skirts. They carried crescent-shaped bouquets of tropical foliage and miniature yellow carnations.

John Carl Barry was best man for his brother, and seating the guests were William Bryant of Grosse Pointe; Frederick Hunting of Cincinnati; and Michael Weston of Birmingham.

Following their wedding trip, the bridal couple will be at home in Ann Arbor, where the bridegroom is completing his studies at the University of Michigan Law School.

Thordike-Bowers

Lt. (j.g.) and Mrs. Albert Thordike Jr. are on a wedding trip through northern United States and Canada en route to San Francisco where they will make their home.

Formerly Doline Marie Bowers, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Bowers of Buckingham Road, Birmingham, and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thordike of Milton, Mass. The ceremony took place June 23 in Christ Church Grosse Pointe, with a reception following in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinando Cimelli, uncle and aunt of the bride who live on Voltaire Place in Grosse Pointe.

The bride observed tradition by wearing her mother's wedding gown of ivory silk and a veil of Brussels lace which had also been worn by her mother. The bridesmaids wore pink linen and carried red sweetheart roses.

They included Virginia Thordike, of Milton, Mass.; Judith Austin of San Francisco; Mrs. Anthony Low, of Boston, and Elizabeth Semple of Grosse Pointe; Francesca and Giocanda Cimelli were junior bridesmaids.

Anthony Low of Boston was best man, and ushers were Emory Rice also of Boston; John and Michael Ganson of Weston, Mass., and Jonathan Bowers of Birmingham.

Fitzgerald-Strickling

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Fitzgerald will be at home at 1832 Yosemite, Birmingham, following a two weeks' honeymoon in the Hawaiian Islands. The couple repeated their marriage vows June 23 in Church of The Saviour, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

The bride, who is in the Birmingham public school system, is the former Betsy Louise Strickling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Strickling of Cleveland Heights. Her husband's parents are Harold A. Fitzgerald, publisher of the Pontiac Press, and Mrs. Fitzgerald of Pontiac.

Betsy chose for her wedding a gown of silk organza, the bodice enhanced by Alençon lace adorned with tiny seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil was secured to a Juliet cap, and she carried a small white prayer book to which were attached white roses and white satin markers.

Mrs. Roger G. Kennedy of Maple Heights, Ohio, was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids from Birmingham included Carolyn Switzer, Barbara Allen and Mrs. Paul Connolly, sister of the bridegroom. Others were Mrs. Charles MacDonald of Cleveland Heights and Mrs. Bryant Filion of Huntington, L. I. They were all dressed in white silk organza over pale blue, some matching blue veils and carried nosegays contrived of blue and white flowers.

Howard H. Fitzgerald of Birmingham was his brother's best man, ushers including Adolph H. Magnus, Bloomfield Hills; Lawrence D. Heitsch, John Tousey and David P. Holtzwarf, Birmingham; Richard H. Zimmerman, Pontiac; Richard F. Euler, Syracuse, N.Y., and James W. Huttenlocher of Clarkston.

Sherrie and Charles Kennedy were flower girl and ring-bearer for their aunt.

Smith-Bates

Sarah Drinkwater Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill O. Bates of Bloomfield Hills spoke her marriage vows June 23 to George Edwin Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Smith of Denver, Colo. The five o'clock ceremony was in Birmingham Unitarian Church and was followed by a reception at Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory silk organza and lace, the bell-shaped skirt falling into a short train. A Juliet cap of matching lace held her finger-tip veil of illusion.
