cers I rode with felt that it was more important to prevent future transgressions thin to issue a lot of tickets which actually built up a resentment for the law.

I repeat that I think generally that law enforcement officers are courageous, fair-minded and underpaid public servants who deserve better understanding in the important role they are pursuing.

It is only with understanding that we can stop our palms from perspiring and our knees from knocking when we see a man in blue in our rear vision mirror.

families that qualify. That's new!
It's nothing new that the Exchange insures only good drivers, has an unbroken 40-year record of returning a savings to all policyholders and has famous 'rellow member collision protection' where an Exchangeinsured member with collision insurance is involved in an accident with another Exchange-insured car he will be paid in full for his car damages regardless of the
