The junior classes annual J-hop was held last week, and turned a great success. Following the theme of "Anadulsa," a Southern mansion, a "Helle of the Ball" was held, and honored at the J-hop. The gym, for a night, became an old, beautiful Southern mansion, and the two bands playing provided much atmosphere.

The Seaholm band and orchestra presented their annual Spring concert in the Seaholm gym. A series of concert numbers, including those played at the District Festival were played. The band, under the direction of Mr. Kitchner and Mr. Hanson, presented seven pieces performed especially for the concert performance.

The annual American Field Service drive is over for this year, with Seaholms turning in over $3,000 dollars help in the form of exchange stamps for next year. Many unusual stunts were staged that week, but by far the most enthusiastic and enduring was that of a single student for his homecoming. Tim Lee, a junior, demonstrated his physical fitness by staying awake day and night during the entire AFS Drive. Donating ten cents, students and adults tried to determine the exact time of the exact day they felt. Tim would finally fall asleep. The winner was to receive a dinner at the Big Boy, where Tim went every day after school. However, Tim didn't go to sleep until after 12 o'clock midnight on Friday night, when the contest ended, so no one won the dinner.

Tim attends school during the five day "marathon," sitting in class "... and vegetating" as he said. Every afternoon he went to the doctor, then spent the rest of the night at Birmingham drives. At 4:00 a.m., he joined some friends who stayed with him until school started. During the day his friends kept him awake, and also the hot coffee one of the homeboms sold for their profit.

FRIDAY NIGHT. Tim attended the dance and social party at Seaholm that one of the homeboms, then went home and slept until late Saturday afternoon. Many of us have heard of these "no-sleep-atoms," but may have believed those participating in the feat would come time, and after Tim, no one at Seaholm will think this. We know that it's possible to stay awake for at least 24 hours.

"Something new has been added," But, you may say, isn't that a television commercial? No ... at least not any more. The week of May 21, the 1962 PIPER Supplement sales will begin. The PIPER, Peg Lukey, decided to issue the supplement to provide coverage of such events as J-hop, the AFS Drive, Senior activities, Commencement, and Spring sports. The supplement will be placed in the back of the yearbook, and since the pages are numbered in sequence, the supplement will be one part of the book.
