Valentine-Dumville Rites Solemnized

Georgia Dumville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Charles Dumville Jr., of 316 Barden Road, Bloomfield Hills, walked up the aisle of Christ Church Cranbrook May 19 to speak her marriage vows to C. Elbert Valentine III, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Elbert Valentine Jr., of 3108 Broadway Blvd., Birmingham.

The Rev. Robert P. Patterson officiated at the 4 p.m. service, which was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents.

Floor-length ivory peau de soie was chosen by the bride for her wedding, the gown distinguished by long sleeves and a bodice of sheerest duchess lace. Venetian lace fashioned the full-length veil, and she carried Eucharist lilies with stephanotis and ivy.

Susan Jane Gordon of Boston, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Vaira Pamilians of Boston and Sue Dumville, sister of the bride. They all wore candlelight taffeta with lace bodices, waistlines cinched by sashes of green velvet. The same green velvet was used to fashion the Dior bows which they wore in their hair. Their flowers were nosegays of gold carnations. Bridesman was William J. Markley of Birmingham, and seating the guests were Paul Huber of Detroit; Robert G. Dunn of Birmingham and Harry and Lindsay Dumville, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Dumville greeted her guests at the reception wearing an emerald green lace sheath, with matching accessories and a corsage of cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Valentine chose beige silk for the occasion, combining matching accessories and bronze cymbidium orchids.

After a wedding trip to Chicago, Wisconsin and northern Michigan, the newlyweds will live in Birmingham.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of Bloomfield Hills High School and was graduated in 1960 from Mount Holyoke College. She spent her junior year at the University of Edinburgh, and at present is a research assistant at the Edsel B. Ford Institute for Medical Research.

Mr. Valentine was graduate from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1957, and presently is with the Engineering Staff, General Motors Corp.

Beauty expert Anita Colby says, "To be a mature beauty does not require a vast sum of money, only time and effort. Over 40's should get plenty of rest; never over-indulge in food, drink or cigarettes; stay out of sun, and watch out for nervous facial habits."

Each new African republic creates a whole new group of morning-coated diplomats and a corresponding number of wives whose native dress influences their official wardrobe. In Paris there is a new dress salon basing its business on wedding African and West Indian dress traditions to modern Parisian chic.
