Non-Stop Expressway To UP Near Completion

Two pretty foreign exchange students helped the State Highway Department open 22.5 miles of Interstate 75 Freeway between Pontiac and Flint last week.

A Coilia Asculi of Conception, Chile, and Regina Petzold of Hamburg, Germany, joined Deputy State Highway Commissioner Frederick E. Tripp in ribbon-cutting ceremonies held at nearby Clarkston.

Both girls are seniors at Bentley High School in Livonia. Miss Asculi is living with the family of J. A. Willis, the State Highway Department's Senior Engineer for the Pontiac District.

THE FREEWAY, which was built at a cost of $17.5 million including right-of-way, was opened between US-10 (Dixie Highway) west of Clarkston to a point south of Flint where it links with the Ohio-Sioo Freeway.

An additional 12.5 miles from US-10 at Clarkston to M-24 at the northeast edge of Pontiac will be opened to traffic next month.

Members of the Oakland and Genesee County Boards of Supervisors and County Road Commissioners participated in the dedication along with officials from Clarkston. Tripp said the new freeway will direct congestion on the Dixie Highway and provide a direct freeway link to Flint and Northern Michigan for Oakland County motorists.

B'ham Youth Serving With 1st Division

Pfc. Ronald M. Hunter, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hunter, 1160 Smith, Birmingham, is now serving with the 1st Armored Division at Fort Hood, Texas.

Pfc. Hunter is assigned to Co. E, 16th Engineer Battalion, 1st Armored Division. Hunter was employed as a television repairman for Service Co. of Birmingham before entering the Army.

The 1st Armored Division, nicknamed "Old Ironsides," was reactivated by President Kennedy in January and ordered combat ready by August to increase the strength of the regular Army.

Old Ironsides is the first Army division to be reorganized under the new ROAD (Reorganization and Objective Army Divisions) concept, designed to provide more flexible divisions, capable of being called to meet various worldwide requirements.

The 16th Engineer Battalion, Old Ironsides' largest battalion, with over 1,000 men, has undergone intensive training at Fort Hood for the past seven months with the division.

HUNTER, now a radio repairman with the 16th Engineers, completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri in Feb. 1962.

The 1st Armored Division, a direct division a year ago, has been a division in a hurry this year with its training program for 15,000 men. Old Ironsides has built its division from the ground up—beginning with the individual training, and then moving up to squad, platoon, company, battalion and brigade exercises.

The 1st Armored Division was recently declared combat ready by Lt. Gen. Thomas W. Duan, III, Corps and Fort Hood Commander.

Groups Cooperate In Care of Elderly Mental Patients

The Michigan Department of Mental Health and the State Department of Social Welfare are cooperating in a program involving the transfer of elderly patients from the state mental hospitals to facilities within the community.

The goal of the program is to transfer elderly people, who appear unable to leave the hospital, to boarding homes, convalescent homes or county medical care facilities. These people can be patients by patients now on waiting lists.

Doctor Walter H. Oheauf, Medical Superintendent at Pontiac State Hospital, said "seventeen people have been transferred already, and many more can be transferred when suitable arrangements have been completed."

Many of these people are eligible for public assistance which will pay for their care. Miss Ora Hincley, Supervisor of the Oakland County Bureau of Social Aid, said that boarding homes are needed for those people with no family to care for them. These men and women who wish to leave the hospital have various hobbies and interests, and feel that life in the average home would be far more satisfying than life in a large institution.

There are two home finders assigned to the program who will be glad to talk with anyone wishing to care for one or more persons in their own home. Anyone interested in this program can contact Miss Hincley at the Oakland County Bureau of Social Aid, 1200 N. Telegraph Road, Pontiac.
