

Decorations Workshop Is Underway

The Community House in Birmingham is sponsoring a creative Christmas crafts workshop to be taught by Mrs. Robert W. Hague, 58 Manor Road.

Mrs. Hague is well-known in Birmingham and Metropolitan Detroit for her imaginative approach and fresh ideas in Christmas decorations as well as in home accessories.

Women who enroll in the Workshop will get ideas to dress up their homes with dramatic, expensive-looking holiday decorations, most of which will have started life as common, non-descript household items.

The Workshop will feature personalized help with individual projects in possible areas of Christmas centerpieces, tree decorations, tree ornaments and package wrappings. The class will be held Mondays, Nov. 19 through Dec. 16, from 1 to 3 p.m. Registration is now being held at The Community House.

Local Girls Participate In Ceremony

Academic investiture ceremonies at Marygrove on Sunday, Nov. 11, marked the college's joint observance of Founder's Week and American Education Week, Nov. 11-17.

After a candlelight procession into Sacred Heart Chapel, the freshmen, assisted by their junior "big sisters," replaced their initiation "dinks" with the scholars cap and became, formally, a part of the scholar's world.

IMMEDIATELY following the chapel service, the college faculty and junior class entertained the freshmen and their guests at a luncheon in the Alumnae Hall of Madame Cadillac Residence.

Area students participating in the service were Kathleen Kavanaugh of 32865 Faircrest; Kathleen Sue Quinlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Quinlan of 32276 Arlington Drive, and Mary Jo Dumon, daughter of Harvey Dumon of 949 Chestnut.

Other local students receiving the scholar's cap and gown were Mary Margaret Roessling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Roessling of 30956 Roberts Drive; Mary Kathleen Callaghan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Callaghan of 86 Manor Road, and Margaret Elizabeth Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton M. Young of 31220 Pierce.

The Birmingham Eccentric

Thursday, November 15, 1962

To be ignorant and fail to cause it to retreat in the face of learning . . . that is downright stupid. Every person is ignorant of many important subjects, yet such a pattern of ignorance does not make one stupid, for one cannot "know it all." Motivated by an inner hunger for knowledge, ignorance slowly gives way to progress toward civilization. Ignorance, driven by honest striving for truth, is mankind's best weapon against barbarism.
