Area Regional Library Conference Scheduled

Some 2,500 civic leaders in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties have been invited to attend a regional governor's conference on libraries set for 8 p.m. this evening in the McGregor public library auditorium, Highland Park.

Tonight's conference is the 10th of 19 regional meetings scheduled throughout Michigan as follow-ups to the First Governor's Conference on Libraries which was held Sept. 19 in Lansing"s Civic Center when 1,000 persons gathered to launch a state-wide citizens' movement for better library service in Michigan.

JAMES TOBIN, president of the Baldwin public library board of trustees, Birmingham, is general chairman and Ralph A. Ulveling, director, Detroit public library and Walter H. Kaiser, county librarian, Wayne county library, are co-chairmen of tonight's meeting which is also sponsored by the Michigan Library Association, the Michigan Council for Better Libraries and the public libraries of Detroit Metropolitan and Wayne, Macomb and Oakland counties.

Following a welcome by Mr. Tobin, the conferees will hear Genevieve Casey, State librarian, discuss "Patterns for Progress", outlining a new state aid formula for Michigan's 325 public libraries, proposed by the State Board for Libraries of which she is secretary. In referring to the new state aid formula, Miss Casey said:

"A MILLION people in Michigan have no legal access to public library service and in small communities many public libraries lack funds to provide materials, services, and personnel adequate to meet community needs.

"A new state aid formula for libraries would meet these needs by encouraging systems of public libraries, increasing state support and providing incentives for library systems to extend service to the million people now without it."

Stratton S. Brown, Detroit attorney, will discuss "Patterns of Cooperation in Government — An Evaluation of the Formula", followed by a question and discussion period.

A REACTOR panel will include Mr. Brown, Miss Casey, John Creecy, president of the Michigan Council for Better Libraries; Mrs. Edward Latulip, chairman of the Joint Committee of AAUW and the Michigan Probate Judges Association on Hospitalization of Mentally ill children; Mrs. Mary Mitchell, member of the Michigan Library Association's special committee on library legislation; Mrs. Fannie Noonan, Director of state aid to public libraries, and Dr. G. Flint Purdy, president of the Michigan Library Association and member of the Michigan State Board for Libraries.

THE FINAL session will be a discussion, "What Should We Do Now?", calling for action by local persons to support and further good library service in the area, tying into the overall state-wide picture.

There are, at last count, more than five hundred active volcanoes in the world at the present time, and more may be coming. New volcanoes can grow very rapidly. The Mexican volcano, Paricutin, was born in a cornfield in February of 1943 and within a week was 500 feet high. In eight years, it had grown to a height of over 2,000 feet.
