Franklin Players Plan Nostalgic Performance

By NITA HARD
 Special Writer

Gillen is replaying "Grandfather" Vanderhof.

OTHERS RETURNING to play roles are Mrs. Phil Van Dyke as Essie; Mrs. John Hill as Rheba; Jack Roberts as Donald; and Don Ode as "G-Man."

Still others are Mrs. Edward Green as Olga; Mrs. Ken Berridge as Gay; Dick Lewis as Ed; Mrs. Harry Rottiers as Mrs. Kirby; Ray Adams as Kolenkov; and Chet Hard and Ken Nichols as "G-Men."

Oliver Greenwood, who played Tony Kirby, was unable to devote the time for the demanding role, so he's switched parts and appears as a "G-Man," too.

IN HIS ROLE Tony, Gerald Hayes, playing opposite him in the romantic lead is Mrs. Harold Gieger. Jack Skeets replaces Bob Hampton as Paul; Frank Colpitta replaces Bob Mitchell as Henderson, and Leonard Pogue plays the role of Kirby, originally played by Andy Suber.

Many of the same props are being dug up as well as the costumes worn a decade ago.

CON-CON WEEKLY REPORT Citizen Interest High On New Document

Citizen interest in Michigan's proposed new constitution is evidenced by a continuing stream of inquiries reaching the Con-Con office at Lansing's Civic Center asking for printed materials describing the new document. Voters will make their decision on the constitution at the polls on April 1, 1963.

The small staff of aides which remains to wind up the work of the convention has been kept busy in recent weeks filling the scores of daily requests for copies of the proposed constitution and two other pieces of literature produced by the convention for distribution.

More than 50,000 copies of the text of the document have been mailed out to groups, libraries, schools and interested individuals. About 35,000 of the 110-page booklet explaining in detail revisions proposed by the convention have also been distributed.

GREATEST DEMAND is for a 12-page pamphlet, "The Proposed New Constitution of Michigan—What It Means to You." This leaflet contains the preface from the larger booklet and summarizes the most significant changes. Upwards
