ONE OF THE newest toys to arrive on the Christmas scene for tiny tots this year is a lovable pooch named "Gaylord." The sorrowful-looking canine walks, barks and will even pick up bones. All you do is tug on his leash and "Gaylord" will obey your commands.

Toys

rocking horse. The frisky colt not only talks but whinnies, neighs, snorts and bucks like the real thing.

GOING BACK TO the cuddly type toy there's a 41-inch sea serpent named Cecil who also talks.

For the under one year set there are the always popular crib exercisers, strands of big colorful beads and the traditional stack toys.

The one to three year old always enjoy the many varieties of pull toys that are available.

Some of the children might be attracted to such things as a take-apart iron for the girls or a color-bench for the boys.

OLDER PRE-SCHOOL youngsters can amuse themselves with a clock they can take apart or a telephone whose eyes roll and has a real bell that rings when a number is dialed.

Old reliables such as building blocks and colorful spinning tops are bound to make any toddler break out in a broad smile.

In the life-size toy tricycles are again one of the most popular toys. Along the same line such things as a snow plow, tractor and a sturdy corrugated fiber-board play house are available.

Games Make for Fun: Here's Some New Ones

What's in a game? Lots of fun, whether you've won or not, particularly with this year's crop of challenging things to do. From six to 66 there's a game to fit every age.

Take, for instance, the latest wrinkle in Bingo sets. It's automated: turn the handle and out pops a number by means of a plastic dispenser and a button-operated banker's board that selects and ejects one number at a time. The set comes with loads of transparent markers, calling numbers and bingo cards.

TALKING ABOUT numbers, there's a "Pot O' Gold" game that's just made for the would-be millionaire. It comes complete with a "magic, bungle buzzer"—battery-operated, of course—and a timing mechanism to remind the slow player to get going.

For who-dun-it lovers, there's a new enchantment coming with a game that scientifically detects crime by means of a miniature lie detector. The score is kept with a pegged board.

FOR THOSE who find it hard

Handyman's Gift

For that handyman who does your odd jobs there's no doubt money would be most appreciated at Christmas time. But why not dress up the gift by putting it in an inexpensive, Yule wrapped wallet?

to sit still, there's even a game that gives the players a chance to test their coordination. The goal is the sinking of the enemy's fleet. The set includes movable periscopes, submarines, mines, radar screen and other modern devices for wee admirals.

The list goes on and on when it comes to games for 1962's moppets. In case the youngster at your house is a little, girl why not get her a phone game that provides some novel messages through its set of colorful playing cards. All in all, it's a good year for games.
