An Old Favorite

That old favorite, Tinker Toy, is used for more modern construction these days with the science age now upon us. This youngster not only designed an anti-aircraft gun, but made a blockhouse out of the remaining parts because this gun is operated by radar.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Old Man John Jones was a shrewd fellow. Everybody knew that. When he retired from the bank he had all his money in farms, and with his retirement he turned his whole attention to managing them.

He had a proper little wife, who was his same age of 66, and four married children ranging in age from 36 to 44. There were those who said his farms were worth $100,000.

His world was in good order. But Old Man Jones got to age 69, then three months beyond it, and then he died.

OLD MAN JIM SMITH had been his lawyer all these many years, and when the funeral and the weeping were respectfully disposed of, Mr. Smith read the will he had helped Mr. Jones prepare.

Mr. Jones allowed, according to the will, that the farms had been good to him and Mrs. Jones and that they would be good to the four children. Whereas, Mr. Jones decreed that the farms would be kept intact, that the income from them would go to Mrs. Jones until she died. Thereafter the four children would be equal owners and would equally share the income.

Designs ConvoY For Space Trip

America's first expedition to Mars might be in a convoY of space ships. Freeman D'Vincent, who is in charge of design of manned space systems at General Dynamics Astronautics, is making plans for two crew ships and two service ships for the initial flight, hopefully in the early 1970's.

"Among other advantages, this convoY arrangement would provide greater security for crew members," he told a Michigan State University audience recently.

"If something went wrong with one of the crew ships," he pointed out, "the entire section housing the crew would be removed and substituted for the corresponding section on one of the service ships."

Dear Santa I love you. I would like to have Dime, the purple dinosaur. I will leave you cookies and milk. Happy New Year.
