

Marian High

After a full week of special events especially geared to the seniors—we've got NEWS for you! Senior Week started off appropriately on Fri., Sept. 21, with a cap and gown investiture ceremony—another first in the halls of Marian. The first graduating class of Marian was solemnly invested by the junior class in an extremely impressive ceremony. Mother Mary Aquin, principal, addressed the student body, as did Nancy Corrigan, the vice president of the senior class.

The observance continued throughout the following week with a freshman-senior autograph contest. All week freshmen sought signatures of seniors in a feverish attempt to be the freshman with the most senior autographs. Carole Basch won first prize—a girl who must have a lot of ambition and nerve! On Wednesday afternoon the sophomore class entertained the seniors in the auditorium with a variety show demonstrating their sundry talents. There were many cases of acute nostalgia when the program reached "This Year's Your Life, Seniors' routine."

The next afternoon, the 27th, the freshmen class took over senior entertainment. They involuntarily gain "lucky" seniors in such games as tug o' war, an egg toss, and balloon busting.

Finally, on Friday afternoon, the juniors presented their program to the honored seniors. This consisted of "Truth or Consequences" (seriously "fixed"), it was discovered, "Password" and a hilarious relay race among other things.

It would be impossible to enumerate all the girls who made this week so special to the seniors, but this first all-school project certainly showed the spirit of cooperation of the classes at Marian.

Marian is honored to have within her senior class a semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Test, Jennifer Sisson, Jennifer, one of 11,000 semi-finalists throughout the nation, has to prove herself in the College Board examinations in December before she is eligible for scholarship. Jennifer is also a member of the yearbook staff and of the National Honor Society.

Dr. Rowland Myers Ph. D., specialist in linguistics and master of several languages, presented a very interesting and amusing lecture to the student body on Mon., Oct. 1. His speech, entitled the "Romance of Words" was the first in the year's series of cultural programs for the education and enjoyment of the Marian student body. His fascinating talk was good introduction to the greatly anticipated culture series.

Kingswood School

On Friday, Sept. 28, the Student Council held its first open meeting of the year. The meeting was held as an assembly, so that the student body could watch the Council in action and also partake in the discussion. The business that was covered included suggestions for the school by individual students and Council projects. Several more open meetings like this are planned for assemblies throughout the year.

The Student Council is again this year sponsoring the Paperback Book Store which opens about the third week of school. Last year was the first time it was introduced to the school, and since the store was so successful, it is being continued again this year.

Friday the Varsity Hockey team played its first game of the season against Grrosse Pointe. As this column went to press, the outcome was not known.

University of Michigan libraries have book collections numbering about 3,000,000 volumes.

Six Youngsters Win Prizes for Flower Displays

Prizes have been awarded to five youngsters at Detroit Country Day Junior School for flower arrangements in the lobby of the school. The winners are Cheryl Scherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Scherer, Farmington; Marcia Fossagno, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Fossagno, 22185 Timberline, Southfield; Kathy Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Bradford, 1187 N. Gienagary Circle, Birmingham; Billy Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bush, 23033 Bristol Court, also of Birmingham; and Alex Peterman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Earl Peterman of Detroit.

The flowers were picked from the youngsters' own gardens and the judging was on the basis of beauty and originality.

Bloomfield Country Day

The Social Committee was elected on Oct. 1, at Bloomfield Country Day School. Marty Ploch, a senior, was voted president by the student body. Other members chosen by their classmates are Ginger Booth senior representative; Sandra MacPherson, junior representative; Barbara Jenkins, sophomore representative; and Kathy Ploch representing the seventh and eighth grades.

The Social Committee has already planned a Halloween mixer with Detroit Country Day School. This party, to be held on Oct. 27, will celebrate the end of what is hoped will be a successful football season for H.D.S. BCDS will be rooting for them at every game through cheers led by cheerleaders Nancy Judd, Rosemary Schuneman, Carol Nicholte, Julie Bennett, and Marty Ploch.

Several college representatives visited BCDS during the week. Mrs. Baldwin of Sweetbriar College, Miss Cummings of Pine Manor Junior College and Miss Oster, a representative of Elmira College, spoke to the upper classes.

The four girls who will be in charge of the school's three major literary projects have been chosen. Maria Kountoupes will be editor-in-chief of the 1963 yearbook, "Pride" and Beatrice Hostick and Brooke Briggs will be co-editors of the school newspaper, "Sheet"; and Ingrid Becker is the Eccentric reporter.

Academy of the Sacred Heart

The full routine of school began last week when each high school class elected its officers. Senior class president is Kathy Martin; vice-president, Rosemary Dempsey; secretary-treasurer, Judy Conklin and mission-representative, Linda Stevenson. In the junior class the new president is Mary Jo Strale; vice-president, Robin Collins; secretary-treasurer, Beifina Burns and mission-representative, Mary Alice Rowe. Sophomore class officers are: president, Mary Jo Slavsky; vice-president, Anne Uveling; secretary-treasurer, Kitty Shannon and mission-representative, Margery Abnik. In the freshman class, the new president is Patricia Strale; vice-president, Susan Bourdin; secretary-treasurer, Ina Broeman and mission-representative, M. I. Mary Mathews.

Under the leadership of captain Gayle Watts, the Committee of Games has organized inter-mural hockey games. Thus far, the seniors are in the lead, but their position will be challenged by the victors of the freshman-junior game. The winners will receive the trophy.

In our Catholic Action program, many students have volunteered their services to charitable organizations. We are now contributing our services to the Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor, the Home Visitors of Mary and the Junior Auxiliary of Saint Joseph Hospital.

Along with the good news of this week there is the disappointing news of the first hockey defeat at the hands of Grrosse Pointe Academy of the Sacred Heart. But such a defeat only created more spirit for the Academy's next game with Grrosse Pointe University School.

Barnum Trojans

On Wed., Oct. 3, the Barnum football team played their second football game with Anderson at the School in Berkley. At the gun, the score stood 26-0 with Anderson the victor. After a day of rain, the field was akin to a sea of mud. Players on both teams became covered with it, and running was hampered. The game, which was played at Anderson, was hard fought by both teams. But the Barnum defense just couldn't hold back the Anderson squad, and the offensive team, led by quarterback Chip Beel, just couldn't make any yardage. The next Barnum game is scheduled for Sat. night, October 13, with Derby. This game, to be played at Seaholm, is the big football event of the year, and we hope to see a big crowd there.

During all of the week of Oct. 1, the students at Barnum were taking their annual hearing and vision tests. The students were taken from their classes to be given the tests. Special machines were used to discover any deficiency a student may have with his eyes or ears.

On Mon., Oct. 1, the National Honor Society held a caramel apple sale in the cafeteria during lunch period. The N.H.S. held its first meeting on Thurs., Sept. 20, under the direction of Miss Slick. Leading the society this year will be its president, Jeff Doane, and vice president Jane Dickson. Other officers are: Martha Jean Payton, secretary, Bob Burnett, treasurer and Nancy Warnock, historian. Other members are Holly Anderson, Jane Hilder, Tom Robinson, Sue Saffkow, Karen Sidley, Sue Wolley and Diane Zube.

A new science wing is being added to the southeast corner of Barnum. The new one story wing will be made up of four classrooms to be used only for science instruction.

The three hundred-fifty square foot rooms will be equipped with reading nooks and visual aids sections, chemical fume hoods, and aquariums. There will also be storage space for equipment between each two classrooms.

On Tues., Sept. 25, all of Barnum's Student Council officers attended a workshop for junior high student councils at Ann Arbor. This study session is sponsored each year by the University of Michigan. The officers were accompanied by the councils' sponsor, Mr. Ladd. This year's officers are: Diane Zube, president, Bob Amberg, vice president, Sue Wolley, secretary, Judy Fredrick, treasurer and Chip Gorman, safety commissioner.

On Thurs., Sept. 27, Barnum's Photography Club had its first meeting. Any student can join this new, interesting club, and no student councils at Ann Arbor, experience is necessary. The members, under the direction of Mr. Blahn and Mr. McMahon, will learn better photography techniques and will learn to develop their own film. When the new science wing is opened after spring vacation, darkroom facilities will be made available for the club.
