

Womanpower Plans 3-Parish Bazaar

Attention All Mothers!

Breathes there a mother with house so big that outgrown sports equipment and clothes can be easily stored? Well, Bloomfield Hills Chapter of the American Field Service has the answer. Members are sponsoring a Winter Equipment Rummage Sale Oct. 27, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., in the cafeteria of Bloomfield Hills High School. Skis, skates, sleds, boots and jackets are just a few of the items to go on sale. Proceeds will be used to assist foreign students here under the auspices of AFS. Donations as well as articles on consignment will be accepted at the school this week. On the sorting committee are Ginny VanDyke (from left), Charles Bailey, Prakash Ratnaparkhi of India and Graciela Llosa from the Argentine.

The women of the Altar Societies of the combined parishes of Holy Name, St. Beris and St. Owen have turned the substantial womanpower of their many guilds to the task of presenting the bi-annual Holly Holiday Bazaar.

With a target date of Nov. 2 and 3, the location set for the gym at Holy Name and the booths decided on, the women of the guilds have spent the mastering new skills toward the bazaar's wares.

Mrs. Edwin Casenhiser, of Franklin, bazaar chairman, has been assisted by a chairman representing each guild, in gathering the toys, needlecraft items, Christmas gifts, wrappings and innumerable specialties patrons have learned to expect in the every-other-year affair.

MRS. C. KENNETH Quimette, chairman of the toy booth, says over 1,000 toys will be featured. Mrs. Harry Hall tells about the bridge and luncheon clubs, decorated candles and glasses for the booth which is St. Mary's guild responsibility.

Artist Rita Macklezen will be on hand to do pastel portraits as part of St. Colette's guild offering, under direction of Mrs. R. E. Gerhardt. Jewelry will be featured in this booth.

Mrs. Richard Meurer and her committee will don red and white checked aprons in the old-fashioned candy store.

There the nostalgic fare of the fair will be rock candy on a string, lemon and clove drops, rope twist, red hot pipes and 11 flavors of candy stick.

IN THE CHILDREN'S booth, Mrs. W. Robinson promises real water for the fishing pond, and diversions such as Dig for Gold, Wishing Well and Ring Toss.

Besides the needlework in the booth headed up by Mrs. Francis Kent, representing St. Francis Cabrini Guild, with its aprons, gloves and sweater bags, there will be a specialty—kissing balls. These are balls made up of tiny pine cones and Christmas balls, and a sprig of mistletoe.

Other booths will be baked goods, Mrs. Leo Wisman; Mrs. Max Bader, new toys; Mrs. Henry Castle, adult games; Mrs. C. R. Penninger, white elephants; and Mrs. A. P. Fontaine, paper booth (Christmas wrappings).

MRS. JOHN ABBINK is in charge of the special gifts committee, Mrs. John Horn, publicity, and Mrs. Louis Desmond, Jr., finance chairman.
