State Economic Position Better Swainson Says

Governor John R. Swainson Wednesday told the Oakland County Democrats about a Michigan that has retained and even improved its position in the economic and industrial forefront of the nation.

He addressed some 100 members of the Oakland County Business and Professional Association at a luncheon at Devon Gables, then visited briefly with Democratic women at a Pontiac luncheon hosted by Mrs. Betty McVay, candidate for county treasurer.

The Governor stressed what recently has become his principal campaign theme: that Michigan is now the third fastest growing state and that its favorable economic climate is attracting scores of new industries.

Only California and Florida, he declared, can top Michigan's growth rate of 200,000 persons a year.

"And it's equally as important and clearly who go to these states," he said, "while we get the young and vigorous."

MORE THAN 200 industrial plants here have expanded within the past year, he continued, and 83 per cent of new locations have been into—not out of—the state.

Sixty-two new industrial plants were started and utilities began a $75-million industrial expansion program, Swainson said, while unemployment dropped from 11.8 per cent in January, 1961, to 6.3 per cent at present.

"This economic growth occurred because there was a Democratic administration in Michigan and in Washington," he added.

Turning to the need for fiscal reform, the Governor told of early overtures to Republican legislators which "fell on deaf ears."

He said Republicans also have failed to meet the educational challenge of a doubling college student population forecast for three years from now.

Mishap Traps Three Workers

SOUTHFIELD—Three workmen were temporarily trapped in a construction cave-in near Nine Mile and Southfield roads Monday afternoon.

Follow workmen dug them out.

Two were taken to William Beaumont Hospital in Michigan and fractures was Cleo Garner, 42, of Detroit. He remains in Beaumont Hospital in good condition.

James E. Smith, 38, of Detroit, was treated and released.

The third individual involved, Clayton Anderson, 42, of Highland Park, apparently was not injured and was not taken to the hospital, according to the Southfield police.

The men, employees of the Frank I. Knight Co., had dug an old gas tank out of the ground and were filling the resultant hole with dirt from a nearby trench.

They had piled the dirt high above ground level and were working in the adjacent trench when the dirt began to slide in.
