If you were present at the recent master point game at Ed Clarke's tournament at the Birmingham Y.M.C.A., you will remember today's most interesting hand. Maybe you didn't get the results that Claude Bennett received, but you will remember the hand.

Claude has won many tournaments in Birmingham and, in fact, has won many tournaments all over Michigan and elsewhere. Claude's ability to place opposition cards is one of the reasons for his success. However, the double by West was a big help in this hand.

which West won with the queen. West led the king of hearts which lost to the ace.

AT THIS point, Claude could see a way to trap West into making the wrong play. He entered the dummy with a small spade and returned to his hand with a small club and removed West's remaining trump. He now led a small club and when West played the ten, he allowed it to win.

West played his queen of hearts and continued the suit, which was ruffed by South with his remaining trump. Now the hook in the club suit won the balance of the tricks.

Dick and Kay McCarnius, playing East and West at another table, did not go for this trap. When Dick, playing West, played the king of hearts, his partner
