Underway At YWCA

A trio of new classes—interior decorating, knitting and oriental flower arrangements—will spark the winter term of Ladies' Day Out (LDO) programs, which opened Monday at Oakland Branch, YWCA, Clawson.

Women enrolling chose from a list of 22 classes in the 10-week Tuesday and Wednesday, or nine-week Thursday, LDO activities, which range from sewing, millinery and Great Decisions to bridge, oil painting and gymnastics. A built-in feature attraction of LDO is the playground for youngsters while their mothers pursue their interests.

Classes will dominate the Tuesday and Thursday sessions, with more informal activity reserved for Wednesday Drop-In. Mrs. Carolyn Williamson of Royal Oak, former home economics and adult education teacher, will relate the uses of colors, textures and combining furniture for that unified look in her interior decorating class from 1 to 3 p.m., Thursday.

"EACH WOMAN WILL be invited to select a room in her home to rearrange or redecorate in the future," said Mrs. Williamson, "and one class session will be devoted to blocking out such a room." How to get your money's worth in buying furniture, what to look for in buying a house, more efficient kitchen arrangement and how to camouflage a bad spot in a room will be among other topics covered in this first course of its kind offered at the branch.

Mrs. Sandra Chait of Detroit, sewing teacher at Northern "YW" and a former knitting instructor in her Tuesday morning class. Sweaters, skirts, hoods, hats, socks and even knit dresses will be among articles tried out by knitters, who also will learn crocheting, needlepoint and allied yarn crafts.

The striking simplicity of oriental flower arrangements will be taught by Mrs. Sally Borden of Birmingham, professional floral designer, in a four-week course from 9 to 11 a.m., Thursdays. Mrs. Borden is holding a second five-week class in dried materials arrangements at the same time, starting Feb. 14.

MRS. MARGARET CHALK of Birmingham will step from classroom seat to rostrum as instructor in the Great Decisions discussion class, which is offered by the branch as a yearly public service. Mrs. Chalk, a member of the class for the past two years under Mrs. John K. Ormond of Birmingham, is branch chairman of public affairs.

The new instructor belongs to the Oakland County Chapter of the American Association for the United Nations, headed by her husband, Harold.

Only charge for this nine-week examination of global hot-spots is the cost of the kit. The class will be held from 9 to 11 a.m., Thursdays.

Tuesday morning classes include the simplified Bishop method of sewing, taught by Mrs. Eleanor Zeits of Detroit; cake decorating by Mrs. Myrna Hitchman of Beverly Hills; and beginning oil painting by Donald Montano of Birmingham.

Mrs. Zeits will return from 12:45 to 2:30 p.m. to instruct advanced seamstresses and conduct another beginning class from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Jacques Sayer of Birmingham will teach duplicate bridge from 12:45 to 2:30 p.m.; Mrs. Julia Bade of Berkeley, millinery; and Montano, oil painting II.

MORNING AND afternoon bridge classes are additions to the Wednesday Drop-In, with Mrs. Esther Samuel of Detroit as instructor. Keep Trim exercises from 9:30 to 10 a.m., taught by Miss Carol Stoneking, branch director of sub-teen and adult activities, is the only other formal class offered in Drop-In. Bridge, sewing, knitting and table tennis are among favorite activities.

Thursday LDO classes from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. include sewing II by Mrs. Zeits; china painting, Mrs. Jo Famos of Royal Oak; and bridge II by Mrs. Samuel. Bridge III by Mrs. Samuel and advanced sewing by Mrs. Zeits round out the afternoon list.
