More Courses, Facilities Provided at Brother Rice

By JOHN MCGUCKIN
Special Writer

With an increased student enrollment and a larger faculty, Brother Rice High School is able to provide its students with many new and unusual opportunities.

New academic courses have been added to the curriculum, and an ever-increasing roster of extracurricular organizations help the BRHS student in obtaining a sound Catholic high school education.

Five new subjects are being taught at Brother Rice this semester. Mr. James Murphy brings political science to the high school in a course entitled "Problems in Democracy."

Seniors taking this course are fully aware of its purpose, to keep today's students stimulated in both national and international problems and issues.

BROTHER J. J. McGovern, who teaches physics, says that the purpose of his subject is "to grow in the appreciation and love of God through a study of His intelligence as manifested in the conservation, interaction, and application of various forms of energy."

A group of Brother Rice seniors are being taught advanced math by Brother E. V. Kelly. Brother Kelly, a new member of the BRHS faculty, feels that the purpose of his course is to prepare the students for math courses they will receive in college. The course covers solid geometry, plane trigonometry, analytical geometry, statistics and statistical inference, a review of algebra and a chapter of calculus.

The purpose of technical or mechanical drawing, as taught by Brother Uicker, is to give scientists, architects and engineers a pictorial language with which they can express themselves. Brother Carney, who teaches bookkeeping and accounting, hopes to give his students a grasp of the business world around them.

Entitled "The Quest," the yearbook will present a general theme of "In Quest of Tradition." This theme is carried into the various aspects of school life such as religion, academics, sports and activities. In each of these fields, the forming of school tradition is highlighted in the purpose and determination of BRHS students.

BROTHER Rice will have its first competitive debate team this year. The team is under the sponsorship of Brother J. B. Nash. Brothers Nash and Faranda have already entered the team in two leagues.

The Saint Thomas More Forum League comprises most of the local Catholic schools. The Michigan High School Forensic League is state-wide. Both of these leagues have two divisions, a senior-junior division and a sophomore-freshman group.

The topic for this year's debates is "Resolved: Essential Medicine should be provided for all citizens by the federal government at public expense."

BROTHER Rice's $28,000 track will soon be completed. A quarter mile in circumference, the track has a 220 yard straight-away. Also to be constructed are both a high jump pit and a broad jump pit. These facilities are capable of being home-site for the Catholic League Championships next spring.

The staff of the Brother Rice "Chief" published its first issue of the new year last Friday. The BRHS journalists would like to carry on an exchange program with any high school in the area. Jim Vannier, circulation manager, can be contacted through Brother Rice.

An All-American rating from the National Scholastic Press Association and an A plus rating from the National School Yearbook Association was won by the 1963 Falcon yearbook.

According to Mr. Fred L. Kildow, director of the National Scholastic Press, the All American Honor Rating represents a superior or rating and is reserved for the top publications. The A plus rating is described by Mr. N. S. Patterson, director of the National School Yearbook Association as being the "Special excellent rating." He notes, "This rare recognition goes to a limited few books each year. It signifies uniform excellence in all basic essentials of a modern book."

Karen Kalayjian was editor of last year's book. Miss Catherine Steffel, journalism teacher, was advisor. Sherry Lagers is the editor of the 1964 book.

The Powder-puff football play-off between sophomores and juniors will be on Monday, October 8. The winners from this game will go on to play for the championship against the senior team on Wednesday, October 18.

STUDENT Council officers, and two members at large, together with Mrs. Mac Adam, Mrs. Sharrard, and Mr. Ashba, will be attending the first Northwest Suburban Activities League Student Council dinner. The purpose of the meeting is to get acquainted and to set up a constitution pertinent to behavior codes between the schools, at games, and at exchange sock-hops. Varsity football game at L'Anse Creuse tomorrow. Be sure to go out and cheer for our team!

Kingswood Picks Student Council Representatives

By BETTY KRAUSE
Special Writer

The second-quarter Student Council representatives have been elected. They are senior Hood, junior Sandra Trubow, sophomore Mary Sue Church, freshman Peggy Darragh, eighth grader Janet Decker, and seventh grader Peggy Wilson.

These girls assumed their duties on Tuesday. This year a new system of electing the girls has been adopted. In order to give more students an opportunity to be on Student Council, new class representatives will be elected each quarter.

This year's new cheerleaders have been chosen. The tryouts were held on Sept. 27, and the girls' names were announced the following Monday. They are juniors Karen Christiansen, Laura Patterson, Kathy Smith and Judy Schaffer, and sophomore Sheri Strickland.

The alternates are senior Sue McGraw and freshman Pam Schaffer. They will lead the cheering section for the field hockey and basketball games.

GIRLS from Kingswood as well as other schools were invited to a Frontier Nursing Service meeting at Cranbrook House on Sept. 30. Miss Brown, assistant director of the Service, was the speaker and told the girls how this organization is helping people in the southeastern Kentucky mountains.

Today is visiting day for the mothers of juniors.

Chickens don't mind if they miss a meal now and then. Researchers found that broilers can go without feed for as long as 24 hours per week with no ill effects. While the scientists do not recommend this practice, their findings should prove reassuring to broiler growers temporarily out of feed.
