

Cranbrook Faculty Displays Art

By DOUGLAS LIBBERMAN
Special Writer

On Oct. 7 the faculty of Cranbrook School unveiled the Faculty-Spouse Arts and Crafts Show. Featured were oil paintings by Mr. Hubert Davis and Mr. Howard Wert, inlaid furniture by Mr. James Garlick and sculpture by Mr. Peter Kerr, of the Arts Department.

Recently the Detroit YMCA announced a program in which certain Cranbrook students, along with other students of the Detroit area, might travel to New York for three days for a study tour of the United Nations, highlighted by an interview with U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, in the middle of November.

New this year will be the Cranbrook Political Forum. Designed to replace the United World Federalists' club, the Forum will offer regular meetings in which students may study and voice political views, and listen to outside speakers brought in for discussion. Heading the Forum will be seniors Steve Senter and Peter Schoen.

A SHORT time ago a professional photographer flew over the Cranbrook campus to take aerial photographs for the school record, and prints of these have just been released. These are the first pictures of this type to be taken since shortly after the school was founded.

Mr. Carl G. Wonnberger, head of the English Department, is having an article on Writing from the Teacher's view published in The Student Writer, a national magazine.

He hopes to follow this later in the year with a companion article, written by one of his pupils, on writing from the student's view. Several Cranbrook students have had stories and essays published in this magazine in the past.

Pep Rally, Bonfire Precede Brother Rice Football Game

By JOHN MCGUCKEN
Special Writer

Although the Brother Rice Warriors have gotten off to a slow start in their first season in the Catholic Central Division, school spirit remains strong behind the football team. This is evidenced by the activity of two important school organizations.

The Student Council, under the presidency of senior Jim Dean, sponsored a pep rally-sock hop on Saturday, Oct. 12. The pep rally featured a bonfire to stir up support for the team in its contest against the Cubs of U-D High.

Continuing the spirit created at the rally during the game on Sunday afternoon was the BRHS Pep Club. Composed of fifty Brother Rice students, the organization is moderated by Brother J. B. Nash. Brother Nash, a new member of the Brother Rice faculty, hopes that the Pep Club will become the nucleus of the BRHS cheering section during the remainder of the football season and the upcoming basketball season.

LEARNING THE cheers at the Brother Rice games are six girls from Marian High School. The girls are assisted by six members of the Brother Rice cross country team. Norm Koltys, Mark Tanguay, John MacAloon, Bob Stark, Pat Feehan and Pete Foley lead the Pep Club in backing the Warriors.

The Brother Rice Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary has reorganized under the direction of Brother J. A. Grimaldi. With Gary Mellon as prefect, the Sodality has undertaken several activities designed to enrich the spiritual life of the high school. The month of Oct. is dedicated to the Rosary. Members of the Sodality lead members of the student body in reciting a decade of the Rosary each day during the lunch periods. The Sodality is also sponsoring Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament on Thursdays during the month.

A joint delegation of members of the Brother Rice newspaper and yearbook attended the annual convention of the Detroit Student Press Association last Saturday. The convention was held in the Memorial Building on the campus of the University of Detroit.

The BRHS delegation was headed by Brothers P. N. Morris and J. A. Grimaldi, who moderate the school newspaper and yearbook respectively.

THE CONVENTION consisted of a series of workshops conducted by professional newspaper and yearbook journalists from the Ohio-Michigan region. Such topics as headline, lay-out, picture taking, and sports reporting were dealt with in detail.

The opening address of the DSPA convention was given by Frank J. Kelley, attorney general of Michigan. A spokesman on many legal topics, Mr. Kelley's experience with Michigan's civil rights program qualified him to speak authoritatively on this year's topic, "What is the responsibility of the high school in the civil rights controversy?"

This topic was chosen to provoke discussion on this issue in Detroit's high school press.

Brother Rice juniors look The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test on Tuesday, Oct. 15. The PSAT is an introduction to the college board tests and tests the two fields of study which are most necessary for college success: English and mathematics.

Members of BRHS seniors also took the PSAT. These seniors are all members of the Aquinas Chapter of the National Honor Society. The PSAT is the qualifying exam for the many scholarships offered by the NHS.

Taking the tests for the second time were Doug Hestler, Gary Mellon, Craig McFyre, John Pickett, John MacAloon, Bob Stark, Ron Schensky, Jim Harrington and Jim Dean.
