Add Seven To Faculty at Country Day

Dr. W. Rodman Snelling, Headmaster of Detroit Country Day School, has announced the appointment of seven new faculty members.

Dr. Snelling has appointed Wallace W. Rich as his administrative director. In this position, Rich will have primary responsibility of the planning and managing of Country Day's 50th Anniversary Program. He is a graduate of Deerfield Academy and Bowdoin College, B.A., 1956.

John Hammett is the school's new Athletic Director. He is a graduate of Albion College and has a master's degree from Michigan State University.

Five men have joined Country Day's teaching staff. Joseph B. Duckworth, a 1959 graduate of Oglethorpe University, will teach English.

Henrik N. Bredenberg, Jr., also has a degree in English. He received his B.A. from St. Michael's College and attended Yale Law School. He went to graduate school at Columbia.

Another new English professor at Country Day is Richard J. Pescosolido, a graduate of Harvard and Cassidy School. He will also join the coaching staff as will the other new members of the faculty.

Thomas C. Moon will teach biology, physiology and junior high school science at the Day School. Moon will also assist in coaching baseball, basketball and football. He attended Kalamazoo College and Oberlin.

Recipient of the first award under Country Day's new Intern Teacher Program is Lee Pavrett, a native of Wyoming. Pavrett will teach some courses, assist with others and take part in the school's extra curricular program.

Derby Spirit Runs High for Groves Game

By TERRY GERMANSON
Special Writer

School spirit is running high as the date of the annual Groves-Derby football game draws near. The kickoff will be at 4 p.m. on the afternoon of Oct. 25 at Groves Stadium.

The Derby Band is practicing for its part in Band Night to be held at Seaholm Stadium on the evening of Oct. 25. A Navy theme will highlight the occasion this year. Derby will march both before the football game and during halftime.

THE UNITED Foundation Drive began Monday at Groves. This year emphasis was put on the personal donation of each student for the sake of charity.

Seniors received letters this past week, concerning their class dues. This covers the expense of caps and gowns, the Senior Satch (Skip Day), senior dinner and gift to the school, and also covers the senior assembly.

Sea green and silver are senior class colors this year. The flower motto is "a thousand miles begins with a single step."

The seniors will be ordering the announcements and cards which are now on display in the showcase by the library.

A MILK-SHAKE machine is now owned and operated in the cafeteria by the Student Council. The aim is to raise money for various school activities.

The Groves Debate Team, sponsored by Miss Joyce Malin, challenged North Farmington's team, Tuesday, Oct. 15.

The A.P.S. club (American Field Service) is now in the progress of planning a Thanksgiving Dance.

Younsters to Take Guided Nature Hike At Kensington Park

Hundreds of youngsters are traveling to Kensington Metropolitan Park southeast of Brighton this month where they are taking guided nature hikes and viewing exhibits at the Nature Center.

Second grade students from Greenfield Elementary School in Birmingham will hike along the trails on Tuesday.

The school's supervisor is Miss Nancy Chapel. Richard Mortimer, naturalist, will explain plant and animal life.

The United States flag which, in 1912, served as the inspiration of Francis Scott Key in the writing of "The Star Spangled Banner," was considerably different from the "Stars and Stripes" saluted by Americans today. The banner observed by Key "so gallantly streaming" over Fort McHenry in Baltimore, had 15 stars and 13 stripes.

Comedy on Tap For Hills High Theater-Goers

By MARIANNE S. BARNETT
Director of Public Relations
Birmingham Chamber of Commerce

In 1959 a group called the Central Business Development Committee was formed to conduct a survey on the future growth of Birmingham and to decide what was best for the "small village" that had grown into a large city.

Business and professional men and women were questioned and asked what they would expect from the area they had planned to work in and many to live in.

After much thought an appointed group of downtown business and professional men were called upon to raise the necessary amount needed to engage a full-time planner, in addition to the Birmingham city planner, who is a vital part of the local government. Sixteen thousand dollars was raised from the business section and a professional planner was engaged.

THE PURPOSE of this long range plan was to see Birmingham did not suffer from the grand exodus of business as has happened in communities to the north and to the south of it. The overall master plan for the business section was to cover a span of ten to twenty years of development.

It could develop one plan at a time and in any order that was vital at the time. On June 5, 1961, Wilbur Mason, chairman of the C.B.D.C., presented to the citizens of the city of Birmingham, the city commission and the members of the Birmingham Planning Board the completed analysis which had taken two years to complete.

It was approved immediately by the city commission and the wheels of motion began to roll.

The chamber of commerce was mainly responsible for its formation but purposely was not made to be Chamber sponsored.

THE PROBLEMS of the central business development are similar to those throughout the country. Typical among these problems are congested streets, insufficient and inconvenient parking, vacant stores and conflicting vehicular and pedestrian movements.

Unlike many suburban areas throughout the country, Birmingham has many pleasant qualities such as lack of conflicting industrial areas, relative compactness of business buildings and the definite presence of distinctive civic grouping.

Several plans are in the formative stages at this time while many have been developed and have long been in the working stage. Parking lot No. 7 is a reality and before long will be an added convenience to the thousands of people who come to Birmingham for business or to shop or just visit. The Woodward Avenue crossover at Brown and Forrest Streets is in the engineering study stage and in the future it, too will be a reality.

The chamber of commerce is constantly alert for the needs of growth and expansion. The beauty of the area and the quality of its shops and businesses continues to attract people in greater numbers.

MEMBERS of this year's year-book were announced last week by Donald Dennis, art instructor.

THE HILLCREST, the yearbook, will be published in June. The theme of the book is traditionally kept secret until its publication.

The production of the book is handled mainly by seniors. The senior staff includes Candace Hestner, Ann Hoppin, Mac Little, Lee Marshall, Pamela Ruppel, Ellen Sarver, Polly Tompkins, and Lynne Zell.

Many BHHS clubs have commenced activities for this year. A ham radio is under construction by members of the Electronics Club. The radio will have 50 watts and teach an area of approximately 200 miles.

THE THREE language clubs French, Spanish, and Latin, held meetings recently. The French Club met Oct. 8. Janis Adams, American Field Service exchange student to Paris, France, this summer presented slides of her trip.

Spanish Club members viewed a Spanish movie "Donna Barbara" Oct. 15.

At the first meeting of the Latin club, the program, members decided the club's program for this year. Plans are being made for members to see the movie "Cleopatra" and visit the Money Museum.

Harris' Adopt Chinese Youngster

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Harris, Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills, have financially "adopted" Chung Kam Wing, a six-year-old Chinese boy in Hong Kong, through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 382 Park Avenue S., New York City.

The foster parent has promised to contribute $15 a month for the child's support for at least a year. He has already received a picture of the new overseas relative. A complete case history of the child accompanied the photograph.

B'ham Youths Get Awards At Cranbrook

Three Birmingham residents have been named scholarship winners at Cranbrook School.

Dale Bosley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Bosley, 575 Pilgrim, has been named the fifth recipient of the Class of 1940 Memorial Scholarship. Dale is a senior. The scholarship is intended as a memorial to the five members of the Class of 1940 who were killed in action in World War II.

A senior, Robert Heavenrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heavenrich, 815 Ridgedale, has been named the Ruth Arie Klein Scholar. The scholarship was endowed seven years ago in memory of Ruth Arie Klein, whose son, Robert, was a member of the 1958 graduating class.

A junior, Peter Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Elliott, 428 West Lincoln, received the Dawson Beatty Brown Scholarship. The scholarship was endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Basil E. Brown of Pontiac in memory of their son, Dawson, who was killed in action during World War II.
