BIRMINGHAM

Mrs. Leonard Wolfe and Mrs. David Howard (from left), both of Franklin, are among area women who will be hostesses Nov. 27 at the Angel Ball in Cobo Hall. Sponsored by the National Council of Jewish Women, the glamor party is a "thank-you" to all suburban and metropolitan women for their substantial contributions to the Council's Resale Shop. With the two local hostesses is Mrs. Jerry Krandall of Detroit, ball chairman.

Ball Will Brighten Thanksgiving Eve

Cherubic angels, glistening flowers and glittering ribbons—all in gold and white—will transform Riverview Ballroom in Cobo Hall to a wonderland of fantasy for the Detroit section, National Council of Jewish Women's Angel Ball, to be held Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 27.

This ninth annual ball is the Council's way of saying thank you to Metropolitan as well as suburban women who have contributed at least $150 in merchandise or volunteer services to its Resale Shop, located on Puritan and Fairfield.

Despite the fact that no tickets are sold for the ball, attendance increases every year and over 1,500 are expected this year. Fenny-Carr's orchestra will play for dancing, a midnight supper will be served and beautifully wrapped surprise packages will intrigue shrewd "angelic" shoppers at the Mystery Boutique.

Proceeds from the shop sales are used to finance the Council's many educational and social service projects locally, nationally, and abroad, and these, too, are steadily increasing in magnitude and scope.

K E E N L Y INTERESTED in mental health, the Council has a number of projects in full swing at the present time. Outstanding among them is the "The Orchards", a residential treatment home for young children, located in Livonia, which was opened last year to fill a vital community need.

Another project is Operation Friendship, which recently celebrated its third birthday. Operation Friendship is a recreational lounge program for patients on convalescent leave from state mental hospitals. They meet two or three times weekly with a professional program and specially trained Council volunteers in an effort to ease their readjustment to community life through recreational group participation.

Other local projects include furnishing and maintaining the Council's lounge in the men's psychiatric ward of receiving Hospital; planned programming by Council volunteers for older adults at the Jewish Community Center; Community Workshop and Special Placement program, in cooperation with the Jewish Vocational Service; teaching of English to newcomers; USO; and participation in the Youth Employment Committee, Central Children's Committee, and Senior Adult Corp.

Internationally the Council's most recent achievement has been the building of Hebrew University High School, an experimental school which recently opened its doors. The John Dewey School of Education in Israel also receives its major support from the National Council of Jewish Women. Graduate scholarships in American Universities are given to many foreign specialists so they may return to serve their own country.

Ball Chairman is Mrs. Jerry Krandall, assisted by Mrs. Alvin Rodecker and fund-raising vice-president Mrs. Oscar Silverman. Busily gifting angels are Mrs. Harmon Jacobs and her decorations committee, while Mrs. Gilbert Michel supervises the daily wrapping of mystery gifts.

Joint Meeting Held by DG's

Kresge Eye Institute, 690 Mullet Ave., Detroit, was the locale for a joint meeting of Delta Gamma alumnae at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday. Special arrangements were made with the Institute to permit members of the Birmingham Chapter, Detroit-DeARBORN Chapter, Grosse Pointe Association and Farmington Association a first-hand view of the work and research being conducted by personnel of the Institute.

Following a tour and explanation of the Eye Bank, the group met with Dr. A. D. Ruedemann, director of Kresge Eye Institute. Dr. Ruedemann, who is also chairman of the Department of Ophthalmology at Wayne State University and president of the Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, will describe the various phases of research being carried out at the Institute.

Because sight conservation and aid to the blind are of major emphasis in the fraternity's national foundation, the 80 Delta Gamma alumnae attending had a special interest in local work being done in this field.
