

Human Relations Is Lecture Topic In 'Living' Series

"What Women Can Do in the Field of Human Relations" is the subject of the second lecture in the Junior Living Series at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the Village Woman's Club, Bloomfield Hills.

The speaker, Dr. Robert Frense, has dedicated his life to reducing intergroup tensions and improving human relationships. He will discuss the current racial problem with its resultant tensions, school "drop outs," "disadvantaged" children and the difficulties inherent in raising children in homogeneous suburbs.

DR. FRENSE, a Ferndale resident, was educated at Ashland College, Princeton Theological Seminary and Wayne University. He holds honorary degrees from Olivet and Wilberforce.

Active in numerous civic and religious organizations, Dr. Frense is currently the executive director of the Detroit Round Table and the Michigan Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and is a member of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on housing and city planning.

This lecture is open to the public without charge.

To Play New Sonata

Duo-pianists Norman Clifford and Sally Dow study score of new sonata by Detroit composer Harold Langsaminger, which they will introduce to Michigan audiences in their concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at The Community House, Birmingham. The program, second in the series presented this season by Birmingham Conservatory of Music faculty members, will also include works by Gifford, Poulenc, Bach, Dussek, Bennett, Viozzi and Rachmaninoff.

As promised last week, I shall report the Buffalo tournament. I found that there were few from Birmingham to attend this regional.

Elizabeth Metcalf and Hane Cartwright from this area came in third over-all in the two-session woman's pair championship. My congratulations to them, and I hope they get the balance of their red points soon. My wife and I came home with four of these red points.

This was the tournament that William Mouser, William Flashenberg and William Nazzaro were supposed to attend — before they met with their accident.

Bill Mouser was the national representative from this district to the American Contract Bridge League. All of us in bridge offer a prayer for these three.

Today's hand was taken from this tournament. These hands were dealt by the automatic machines and that may explain why so many of them were unusual.

East had hopes of stealing a trick but found out that Elizabeth Metcalf wasn't bad at the same idea of stealing tricks.

The bidding was most usual, and West decided to lead his weak major in the hope that he might set up a trick in partner's hand.

Declarer won the first trick in the closed hand with the jack of spades and led back another spade, which East covered North's queen to win. East now tried to gain a trick by underleading the ace of diamonds which Elizabeth let run to the queen on the board.

She now took four clubs and four hearts, discarding the two diamonds from the board. On the 11th trick, Elizabeth did discard the last diamond from the board, but what could East do? If she discarded a spade, the two spades in dummy would be good. Otherwise, she would have to discard the ace of diamonds and allow the king in Elizabeth's hand to make. East could do no better than to "eat" her ace of diamonds.

This may be premature, but it is well believed that George Alderton III and Edwin V. Clarke will win the Thursday evening trophy offered by Hilda Murphy for that championship.

Other winners in Birmingham tournaments include Jim Crabb and Stewart Murphy, Ed Fintak and Dan Harrington, Roger Davis and Robert Kinney, Mary Malchie and Helen Campbell, Hilda Murphy and Jim Crabb, Charles Trumser and Mr. Drees, Arlene and Mr. B. Heck, Dorothy Johnson and Fern Berlin, Ollie Swarzwaldner and Bernice Dawson.

Sue Woodruff and Loretta Rice, Charlotte England and Dr. Harold Barron, Bud Dreflous and Stan Wenzley, Skip Walker and Dr. C. Walker, Lullie Brunk and Dottie Barron, Edna Canfield and Dorothy Lacy, R. F. Gavoda and W. A. Gavoda, and Ann Haskin and Eleanor Milton.

The December winner's game will be held at the Birmingham YMCA the second Sunday in December at 6:30 p.m. It may not be held in Birmingham again for several months, so you are urged to attend this one.

Bandsmen In Indiana

Arnold Berndt, 2530 E. Maple, Birmingham, is attending the 1963 convention of the American School Band and Director's Association in Elkhart, Ind., "Band City" of the world.

This is the first time the convention has been held in the city where most of the school band instruments used in the United States are manufactured by 20 companies.

"Industry in Music" is the theme of this year's convention which features tours of the band instrument-making plants. A dinner party was held Sunday, and instrument manufacturers were the hosts.

gathering of bandmasters is Paul Yoder, composer and conductor whose contribution to school band music is considered a big factor in the development of the school band movement in the United States.

Other highlights of the meeting include a performance by the United States Army Band under the direction of Lt. Col. Hugh Curry; the Elkhart High School Band, the Elkhart Municipal Band, and high school bands from Oak Hill, Goshen, South Bend, New Paris, Hartford City, and LaPorte, Ind., as well as the band of Northside Junior High School, Elkhart.
