

Wayne State Planning Experimental Theatre

Michigan residents will soon have an opportunity to enjoy in their own state Shakespearean plays and other classics performed in a new experimental theatre based on the same theatre form that inspired the Stratford, Ont., Canada, Festival Theatre and the new Tyrone Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis.

In commemoration of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth, Wayne State University, Detroit, is planning a season of repertory which will open in January, 1964, and run until June.

The project is expected to draw Michiganians from most areas of the state since hundreds of miles of recently opened freeways make Wayne's campus easily accessible.

WAYNE'S six-month Shakespearean celebration will consist of a four-play series on the open stage theatre now being constructed within a newly-acquired campus auditorium.

Plans call for an intimate 600-seat theatre with a flexible open stage. Based on the Greek and Elizabethan concept of a platform jutting forward into the audience, the design features a stage that completely surrounds the audience.

This new concept, called the "Classic Theatre," is being developed under the direction of Profs. Leonard Leone and Richard D. Spear.

Future plans call for visiting directors from outstanding world repertory theatres and outstanding scholars to assist in program development. Also, 30 acting fellowships and grants-in-aid are being made available to outstanding young actors from colleges and universities throughout the country.

Folk Artist To Appear at Raven Gallery

Rowena, internationally-known folk singer, will entertain members and guests of the Metropolitan Detroit English Club at the Raven, 136 Brownell, Birmingham, beginning at 8 p.m. Monday.

Rowena's recent appearances include a series of network shows for the Canadian Broadcasting Co. She has also performed at the Karamu Playhouse in Cleveland and on numerous radio and TV programs.

Rowena played the musical accompaniment for a film on Early American painting, which received recognition from the Museum of Modern Art in New York City.

THIS RESIDENT of Oxford, Mich., is well-known on the night club and concert circuit. She is best known, however, for her work in educating the public to the universal appeal of the folk song.

Critics have stated that she belongs to that small set of artists whose art is based upon a genuine interest in people.

Heading the English Club is Mrs. Sophie Kloss, 1934 Fairway, Birmingham. Mrs. Kloss stated, "We hope all interested residents of Birmingham will hear this fine folk singer."

Reservations may be placed with Arthur Chabot, Henry Ford Senior High School, Detroit. There is an admission charge for non-members.

France was the first country in the world to adopt the metric system of measuring in 1795.

was one of his subtle ways of persuading others.

I thought for a moment about his side of the issue and said, "As long as they are all for us, I don't suppose it matters if delegates are lined up ahead of time."

He smiled that big winning Kennedy smile, and I got on the band wagon that eventually carried him to the front ranks of history's parade of great men.

OU Students Schedule 2nd Science Night

Science students at Oakland University, Rochester, are completing plans for their second annual Science Night program for high school students and teachers on campus Thursday, Dec. 5.

Last year's science program attracted more than 500 persons. "One group of students came from as far away as Grand Rapids," said Dr. Frederick Ober, assistant professor of chemistry.

THE PROGRAM WILL include exhibits and demonstrations, and the visitors will have an opportunity to see the undergraduate science laboratories in operation between 4 and 6 p.m.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. in the Oakland Student Center.

Dr. Geoffrey Keller of the National Science Foundation will be the principal speaker. He is assistant director of physical, engineering and mathematical sciences for NSF.
